Scores Victory Over Enemies By Appearing

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti's Dictator - President Francois Duvalier insists he will remain in office despite reports abroad that he is planning to flee his rebellion - threatened country.

"Haiti will continue under my administration," Duvalier told American correspondents summoned to his palace Wednesday in an apparent effort to scotch reports he intended to flee.

By showing himself unscathed, Duvalier, 56, scored a victory over enemies who had sworn to kill him rather than let him begin a new presidential term.

Duvalier's constitutional term of office expired Wednesday, but he declared himself re-elected for six more years after a rigged ballot two years ago.

Duvalier's regime plans a splurge for his inauguration May 22. Haitians throughout the countryside are being herded into trucks and carts to Port au Prince.

The people also are being forced to "contribute" to help defray expenses of the inaugural celebration.

"Papa Doc," as he is known to the Negro Haitians, may survive that day, too, but foreign observers of Haiti's troubles give him no more than another year at the helm of his impoverished, fear-ridden little nation.

Clement Barbot, once Duvalier's right-hand man, has sworn to kill his former chief and is at large somewhere in Haiti with a band of underground fighters.

Haitian exiles abroad have been reported planning invasions of the country.

The other nations of the hemisphere are solidly opposed to his dictatorship though as yet they have not been able to agree on any action against him.

Despite the opposition, Duvalier exuded self-confidence as he appealed for better relations with the United States but made plain he would not tolerate outside interference in his rule.

Medicare Bill Passes The Senate

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A bill to set up an expanded medical and hospital care program for the indigent was advanced by the Missouri Senate today after a long wrangle.

Welfare Director Proctor N. Carter has estimated its cost at about $4 million in state money and about $6 million in federal Kerr-Mills funds for the first two years. He has called it a modest approach to the problem.

Sen. Jack C. Jones, D-Carrollton, expressed fear the cost would mushroom in future years.

But Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, handling the bill, pointed out it has a built-in safeguard—the welfare director would have to cut payments under the bill to fit the amount of money available.

Currently Missouri provides medical care for its welfare clients only in cases of medical emergencies or acute serious illnesses. The bill would allow an old age assistance recipient or a permanently and totally disabled person to be hospitalized if a doctor certified that was necessary.

A new program of state aid for drugs and dental care would be set up and the amount paid for bedfast patients would be increased from $100 to $110 a month. Payments to nursing home patients would be boosted from $70 to $80 a month.

Under an amendment pushed through by Jones after more than an hour of debate, none of the money could be used to pay fees of attending physicians.

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass said today Oleg Penkovsky has been executed in accordance with the sentence pronounced last Saturday in the spy case involving Greville Wynne, a British businessman.

Warning Against Poisons

Uncontrolled Pesticide Use Being Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's top science adviser said today contamination from uncontrolled use of pesticides and other poisonous chemicals is potentially a much greater hazard than radioactive fallout.

Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner declared emphatically, however, that "I'm not saying it is the situation today." He told a Senate Government Operations subcommittee that no one really knows yet the full story of the effects of pollution.

Weisner gave the testimony at the start of hearings by the subcommittee on the entire range of pollution, including fallout from nuclear testing, pesticides, contaminating effects of some detergents, fumes from motor traffic, and others. It will consider the possible need for better government controls.

The President's Science Advisory Committee which Wiesner heads reported Wednesday that 150 Americans—half of them children—are killed each year through misuse of powerful pesticides.

The committee recommended speedy federal action to protect humanity and wild life by assuring more judicious use of chemical pesticides and stronger laws to control them.

The report was issued late Wednesday by the White House with this accompanying word from the President:

"I have already requested the responsible agencies to implement the recommendations in the report, including the preparation of legislative and technical proposals which I shall submit to the Congress."

Among the highlights of the report, prepared by a panel of experts appointed by the Science Advisory Committee:

Rev. Odell Will Deliver Baccalaureate Address

Rev. Garner S. Odell, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian Church, will deliver the address at the baccalaureate service which will be held at the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium at 2 p.m. Sunday. His sermon topic will be "Three Great Choices."

The service will open with the procession, "Cornelius Festival March" by the high school orchestra, followed by the scripture reading by Rev. Roger Field, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church.

The mixed chorus will sing "Heavenly Light" by Willowsky, with prayer by Rev. George Sparling, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church. Choral response will be by the mixed chorus.

Following the sermon by the Rev. Mr. Odell, Kay Rotermund will sing, "All in the April Evening."

Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor of the First Christian Church, will give the benediction, after which will be the choral response by the mixed chorus and the recessional "Pomp and Circumstance" Edgar Elgar, by the high school orchestra.

The candle service will be held at 3:30 p.m. Monday, under the direction of Miss Mila Swearingen.

Opening with the "Call to Colors" by Bill Brown, and the procession, "Festival March" by Bergen, the Junior and Senior classes will sing "Hail Alma Mater."

Bill Hopkins, president of the Student Council, will bring the greetings.

The class address will be given by Mike McLeod, president of the Senior Class with the response and pledge by Mike Robinson, president-elect of the Senior Class.

Bill Hopkins will then present the queen of the Senior Class, Linda Gray, who will surrender her scepter to Kathy Kinshella, queen-elect of the Senior Class, who will give the response.

Investment of Student Council vice-president, will be made by Mary E. Van Dyne, who holds that office, to John Lamy, vice-president elect of the Student Council, who will take the pledge of office.

Esser Files An Appeal On License

Richard C. Esser, proprietor of the Esser Sales Company at 513 West Main here, filed an appeal in Circuit Court Thursday morning asking a review of the 20-day suspension of his state liquor license.

Suspension of the Esser establishment's license was announced recently by Hollis M. Ketchum, superintendent of liquor control for Missouri. The suspension was for sale of liquor to a minor, Ketchum said, and would take effect beginning on June 3.

Ketchum Thursday provided the Circuit Court here with the transcript of a hearing held May 1 in the State Office building at Jefferson City, after which the liquor control supervisor ruled a violation had occurred and ordered the 20-day suspension.

Timmy Lovren Turley, age 17, who gave his address as 214 Midway, Pueblo, Colo., testified at the hearing that he purchased liquor on March 20 and March 21 at the Esser firm. Young Turley said he was in Sedalia at the time living with a brother, Arthur Blain Turley.

Turley was picked up originally by Police Sgt. Perry Franklin, who testified he and another police officer found a bottle of vodka martini and an accompanying mix for this drink plus five full cans of beer and several empty cans in a car occupied by Turley. This was discovered on a parking lot behind the Gillespie Funeral Home at Ninth and Lamine where the officers were making a routine hucap check on another car, Franklin said.

The youths in Turley's car were cracked after they had driven up, Franklin testified, and the officers noted beer in the car. A further search revealed the vodka martini drink.

Under questioning, Franklin said Turley admitted he had purchased the vodka martini drink from a Mr. Baker at the Esser firm and the beer from a woman employee.

Turley testified he purchased the vodka martini drink on March 20 and bought the beer on March 21.

Local Man Takes Part In Recovery

Kenneth W. Schuster, Aviation Electricians Mate, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O. Schuster, of Route 1, Blackwater, serving with Helicopter Squadron Six, is scheduled to take part in the Pacific recovery of Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper during his 22 orbits of the earth.

Cooper Speeding On Toward Splashdown

Large Recovery Force Waits In Pacific Area

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper, a superbly performing space pilot, sped on toward completion of his marathon 22-orbit flight today, heading for an afternoon splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

With astronaut and spacecraft in excellent working order, Mercury Control Center flashed the good word to Cooper during his 16th orbit that he had the green light to go all the way.

Refuses To Reconsider Banking Bill

Committee Approves Bill To Allow Vote On Superintendents

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri House refused today to reconsider a once-defeated bill to allow expanded services at separate banking facilities, the so-called motor banks.

The bill was defeated Monday, 56-81, and today the house refused to revive it on a 64-73 vote.

Sponsors said it would let motor banks accept loan payments. They denied the charge of opponents that it was just one more step toward branch banking.

One of the opponents, Rep. James G. Trimble, D-Clay County, said it was apparent to him "some forces evidently have been at work to get some members to change their positions on this bill if not their thinking."

He said the House should quit wasting time on trying to reconsider defeated bills. Those who have live bills on the calendar, he said, may never get them considered if efforts are constantly made to reconsider bills which already failed once.

The House Judiciary Committee reported it approved a bill to set up a court of the judiciary to consider the retirement of disabled judges or the punishment of those who are found to have violated the law or their oaths of office.

Wednesday, a Senate committee approved a bill to let local voters decide whether the office of county school superintendent should be abolished.

The House killed a bill earlier to abolish the office in all counties where the school districts are completely reorganized, leaving the superintendent with only nominal duties.

At the suggestion of Rep. Fred Stutler, D-Sullivan County, the Senate committee adopted a local option amendment. Stutler said the revision would gain enough support to pass it in the House.

In Parliament

Pearson Decision To be Challenged

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's decision to accept nuclear weapons appeared headed for an early challenge as Canada's new Parliament assembled today amid traditional pomp and ceremony.

No political fireworks were expected at the opening meeting, however. The chief business was the speech from the throne, outlining the new Liberal government's legislative program. Opposition leaders will get a chance Monday to deal with the nuclear issue when they answer the throne speech.

The throne speech usually is ready by the governor general, but Chief Justice Robert Taschereau was chosen to substitute for ailing Gov. Gen. Georges Vanier.

Forecasts said the speech would place heavy emphasis on measures to boost Canada's economy.

The federal budget will not be submitted until mid-June.

Because the Liberal party has only a minority of the House of Commons seats the debate on the throne speech will have unusual significance. The government could be toppled by a vote of no confidence. Political observers generally predict that the opposi-

If there is no emergency hitch, the reverse rockets on Cooper's Faith 7 capsule are to be fired east of Shanghai, China, about 6:02 p.m. Eastern Standard Time to begin a gradual descent to a parachute landing in the Pacific some 80 miles southeast of Midway Island.

Touchdown time was scheduled about 6:23 p.m.—12:23 p.m. Midway Time.

A large Pacific recovery force, headed by the carrier Kearsarge, waited in the area. The Kearsarge hoped to improve on its record of last Oct. 3, when it had astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. on board just 42 minutes after he landed some 9,000 yards from the craft.

Cooper was waved on for the full flight not long after he awakened from a good night's sleep.

Then he went into action as a camera bug.

Over the Indian Ocean he pulled out a 35mm robot still camera with a fast lens to photograph the zodiacal light, a weird glow visible on the horizon in the east before sunrise and after sunset. Scientists believe the color pictures will prove a theory that the phenomena is caused by the sun's rays reflecting off dust clouds.

"Hello down here! Did I take pictures, pictures, pictures!" Cooper exclaimed to communicator Virgil Grissom on the ground at Guaymas, Mexico. Then he reported he was turning the capsule 360 degrees on its yaw axis to take the "MIT jobbies."

He referred to a series of eight horizon pictures made especially for Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which is studying the possibility of using the horizon as a navigation reference point for spaceships returning from the moon.

"You have my sympathy," Grissom commented.

"I'm not complaining," Cooper replied.

Grissom then passed on some camera lens setting and filter suggestions from Mercury Control Center. Cooper went about his picture-taking business and sped across the southern United States to the start of his 17th earth orbit.

Cape Canaveral contacted Faith 7 at 9:09 a.m. and astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. commented on how well Cooper was conserving his fuel and oxygen.

Question On Orbits Revealed

Orbit for Cooper One of Two Things; Both Are Different

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—When is an orbit not an orbit? When it's a revolution, of course. Except that even then it's called an orbit.

Confused? Well, relax—it isn't bothering astronaut Gordon Cooper and it boils down to semantics anyway.

An orbit for Cooper is one of two things—both of them different.

A Keplerian orbit is a complete circle from one point in space around and back to that same point in space again.

But experts at Mercury Control—for simplicity's sake—have used a different measure.

They drew an imaginary line, north to south, through Cape Canaveral, and measured an orbit as the amount of time it takes Cooper to make it once around and cross that line.

The earth rotates in the same direction that Cooper is flying—to the east—and he has to travel a little more than a full circle each time to cross the Cape Canaveral line. Experts at Mercury Control call this an earth-fixed orbit—or a revolution.

The Keplerian orbit takes about 88½ minutes. The earth orbit takes five minutes longer, about 93½ minutes—the full circle plus the amount of time it takes to catch up with the Cape Canaveral line.

Cooper's flight—advertised by NASA as a 22-orbit mission—was figured on the basis of almost 22 of the earth-fixed orbits or revolutions. In the traditional sense, he is traveling more than 23 of the circular or Keplerian orbits before he returns to earth.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, Mercury public affairs officer, said today the Keplerian orbit is a "point to point in space which has no relation to the earth beneath it."

Goldwater No Candidate, He Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., says he has asked three California GOP groups to stop raising presidential campaign funds for him.

Goldwater said Wednesday he had written two organizations of volunteers, notifying them he isn't a candidate for the 1964 nomination and that he wants them to halt any fund collection for that purpose.

To avoid embarrassment of individuals involved, he didn't name the groups. He said he had reports a third organization was collecting funds, but didn't know its name so had written a GOP county chairman asking him to act.

The action by Goldwater was somewhat similar to that taken by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in calling off the efforts of former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to organize a nomination drive for the New Yorker in California.

Goldwater insisted he was acting only in line with his repeated announcements that he is only running for re-election to the Senate next year.

"We are still sending back 'Goldwater for President' checks that come in," he said. "Of course, we're glad to keep contributions made for the senatorial campaign."

Behind that, Goldwater said he has continued to refuse any help from groups who are trying to "draft" him for the national nominations.

The Arizona senator professed ignorance of internal moves to realign the Republican party organization in California since former Vice President Richard M. Nixon decided to move to New York.

Speculating on this situation, Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., predicted in a statement Wednesday that GOP former Sen. William F. Knowland might head an unpledged slate of delegate candidates in the next June's primary.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., maintained silence about the party realignment in his state. But it was obvious that he expects to be a convention delegate.

Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing to you in the hope a close friend of mine will see my letter. To put it realistically, I should say I hope someone will see it and call it to her attention. This is the problem — she doesn't see a darned thing but she's too vain to wear glasses.

The woman is in her late 40's, very good-looking, and could easily pass for 35, if she didn't have deep furrows in her forehead and crow's feet around her eyes, which, of course, are the result of years of squinting.

She also has a reputation as a snob which is undeserved. The woman passes up people on the street right and left because she doesn't see them.

Please, Ann, a few lines in your column may encourage these foolish people to get the help they need. Thank you. — MRS 20 - 20 WITH GLASSES

Dear 20-20: Here is the letter. I hope someone reads it to your friend. Glasses these days are so smart, many a girl has faked myopia.

Well-designed specs often add to a person's appearance. And incidentally, some aging matrons look years younger in glasses because the frames hide the pouches under the eyes. And for those who have an aversion to glasses, there are contact lenses.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 18 years old and I have been married for two months. My husband lost his job the same week we were married. I took on a night job in addition to my 8-hour day shift because we owe on a car, appliances, furniture, clothing and he was up to his neck in debt before we married.

I get only four or five hours sleep at night and when I'm awake I'm on the go every minute. I believe my husband is really trying to find work but things are tough in this town and he hasn't any luck.

I'm not complaining about his unemployment, but rather that he refuses to do anything around the apartment to help me. He won't shop for the groceries or straighten up the place or even start supper.

When I get home exhausted, I have to cook, clean and do the washing and ironing. If I'm expecting too much from him please let me know. I will take your advice. — HANDS FULL

Dear Full: Eighteen years old, married two months and off to a lousy start. You could have waited a while for this deal.

That husband of yours should be helping straighten the apartment, he should be doing the marketing, the cooking and anything else which might make your life easier. Any woman who has proven her willingness to go the extra mile, as you have, deserve all the help she can get.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago my husband and I entertained a couple in our home. When they left, the woman said, "We had a lovely time. And now you must come to see US sometime."

My husband has been nagging me ever since to go visit these people. I keep telling him we'll go when we get an invitation. He insists we HAVE been invited and repeats the "Come and see us sometime" line.

I have told him repeatedly that I don't consider this an invitation but he claims I am thin-skinned and too formal.

If I am wrong about this I wish you would tell me. If my husband is wrong, please tell him so he will get off my back. Thank you. — NOT SURE

Dear Not: "Come and see us sometime" is a polite phrase equivalent to "How are you." About 95% of the people who ask "How are you?" don't really care. And the same goes for people who say "Come and see us sometime." A meaningful invitation includes a specific day and time.

Ann Landers will be glad to help

Cooper Takes It Easy On Space Jaunt

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (AP) — Call it nonchalance, or just easy going, but sometimes—with in the privacy of his sky cabin—it's hard to tell whether astronaut Gordon Cooper is awake or asleep.

Even in the last tense minutes, waiting to blast off, Cooper may have dozed off.

Again—in some quiet moments as he approached the California coast on his second orbit—Cooper dropped off to sleep again.

Finally after 12 hours and 40 minutes in space, Cooper reached the 10-hour period circumscribed as a "don't call me, I'll call you" time in which he could rest undisturbed by calls from the ground.

It took him barely five minutes to relax to the point where his doctors could say it appeared he was asleep.

The doctors say Cooper was very near sleep, if not actually dozing at a time during the last 60 minutes of his countdown.

They watched on the instruments as his breathing rate fell to a sleeping pattern of about 12 breaths a minute, and became very regular, and his heart indicated sleep too.

They got the same report from the astronaut's body Wednesday night as he passed over Ascension Island, about five minutes after his rest period began.

Being considerate fellows, they didn't ring him up and ask if he was asleep.

Unlike most bosses, space officials don't look down on this kind of catnap on the job. Also unlike most bosses they can tell whether an astronaut is dozing because the space pilot's body is wired with sensors that tattle on him—take his electrocardiogram, breathing rate, temperature and so forth.

Actually his doctors were happy to see him napping earlier in the flight because it indicated he would have little trouble sleeping during the rest period.

Asked if it was all right for Cooper to drop off that way, Operations Director Walt Williams said, "Why not?"

Astronaut coordinator Donald K. Slayton was asked whether Cooper likes to sleep on the boat when he and his fellow astronauts go fishing.

"We all do," Slayton said protecting astronaut anonymity, "when we are not catching any fish."

Slayton doesn't think it strange that a man can sleep a hundred you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Enclosed Shopping Centers Catching On Rapidly in US

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of the nearly 7,000 shopping centers that have sprung up across the land in recent years have run into trouble. Too many, too close, or in the wrong locations are some of the reasons.

But one highly specialized form—a relatively newcomer, with an enclosed mall, air-conditioned and heated—boasts it will double its numbers within a year.

These are still comparatively few—20 now and maybe 40 a year from now. And last year their total sales came to $1 billion, compared with $55 billion for all centers.

But proponents say they are catching on both in the North, where artificial heat is a selling point, and in the South and Southwest, where refuge from the natural heat draws in the customers.

These enclosed small, air conditioned centers, called EMAC cost more to build and to run. The additional cost can run as high as $1 million. The rent can be as much as 25 cents a square foot more. But their builders say that increased sales justify the higher rentals.

Twenty more are reported under construction or planned. In addition, there are a number of major suburban shopping centers with covered malls—the difference is they aren't totally enclosed and air-conditioned. Some of the newer ones are said to be designed with an eye to conversion later.

Most EMAC complexes are 300,000 square feet or larger with a major department store at each end of the mall.

The mall usually contains fountains and benches, gardens or shrubbery. Often the centers offer community and cultural services along with usual diversified retailing facilities.

"Concerts, art exhibits, garden shows, international film and food festivals, and amateur theater productions are just a few of these," says David Muss, president of Winston-Muss Corp. His firm is the builder for the Long Island and New Jersey centers and has others under way near Phoenix, Ariz., and St. Petersburg, Fla.

He says the pioneer of the movement was a center near Edina, Minn., in 1956. This was followed by others near Kansas City and St. Louis.

EMAC is only one of the trends in shopping centers. They are becoming larger and adding more than shops and parking lots. Now found in some centers are hotels, libraries, hospitals, theaters and auditoriums.

Kindly Court Puts Burglar on Probation

CROYDON, England (AP)—A ham-handed burglar who broke a leg trying to carry away a safe was placed on probation for two years by a kindly court Wednesday.

Michael Barr, 28, said he was wheeling the safe out of an office on a hand truck when it fell off and broke his leg. He pleaded guilty to breaking into the office with intent to commit a felony.

Magistrate A. J. Dunn decided to give Barr a chance to go straight. The judge said: "Try to get you leg well and find a job as soon as you can."

Clarksburg Considers Sewer System Survey

A meeting was held this week at the Clarksburg School to determine if people of the town desired a sewer system. A vote was taken and 25 voted yes and 17 voted no.

A general discussion was held concerning the cost prior to the voting. The town council met at the close of the meeting and voted to table the issue and not call the close of the meeting and voted to table the issue and not call in an engineer to make a survey, as the vote was so close. The subject will be brought up at a later date.

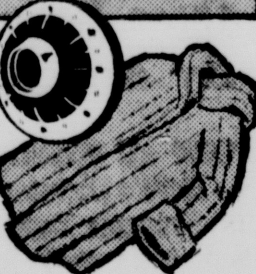

The matter will be investigated by the council and comparisons of other systems will be made for citizens understanding before a survey is made.

Lee Homer Hubbard (Sedalia)

Lee (Dude) Homer Hubbard, died at the Veteran's Hospital in Kansas City Wednesday afternoon following a lingering illness.

He attended C. C. Hubbard High School in Sedalia and served in World War II. He was active in veterans and civic affairs, being a past commander of Henderson Post No. 899 in Sedalia; and past president of the Progressive Democrats Club.

Surviving are two aunts, Mrs. Anna L. Byrd, 113 East Pettis; Mrs. Betty Finley, Ottoville; and an uncle, Will Porter, Ottoville. Funeral arrangements are in complete.

The body is at the Allen and Son Funeral Home.

Laura P. Katzer (San Gabriel, Calif.)

Laura Philomena Katzer, former Sedalian, died May 4 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fred Montague, at San Gabriel, Calif. Miss Katzer was born Sept. 14, 1889, in Sedalia, the daughter of William and Mary Katzer.

Surviving are two brothers, William and Emil Katzer, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Mrs. Charles Whitson and Mrs. Fred Montague, all of the state of California.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Annunciation at St. Gabriel, Calif.

Six Valley Students Expelled For Role In Death of Heifer

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP)—"Roses are red, violets are blue; here lies a cow the Alpha Sigs slew," read the homemade tombstone near the chapel on the Missouri Valley College campus.

The college disciplinary board took a less humorous view of the prank that precipitated the tombstone. It expelled six students Wednesday, five of them members of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity.

A heifer was found dead near the chapel last Friday. Authorities said the animal died of exhaustion after having been run from a nearby farm.

The pranksters apparently had planned to put the cow on the chapel stage.

Canadian Tanker Bases Will Close

OTTAWA (AP)—Two of the four U.S. air tanker bases in Canada used for refueling flight bombers will be closed by July 1, External Affairs Minister Paul Martin announced.

The bases at Frobisher on Baffin Island and Fort Churchill, Man., will be turned back to the Canadian government for civilian airports. Martin said they are no longer needed because of new longer-range tanker planes.

The U.S. bases at Cold Lake and Namao in Alberta will be kept in operation.

West German House Approves Treaty

BRUNN, Germany (AP)—The lower house of the West German Parliament overwhelmingly approved today the French-German friendship treaty providing for co-operation between the longtime enemies.

The treaty now goes to the upper house—the Bundesrat—where approval is certain.

The treaty envisages close cooperation in diplomatic, defense and cultural matters. It provides for regular meetings between the chiefs of state or government as well as between the foreign, defense and education ministers.

To Observe Salvation Army Week

National Salvation Army Week will be observed throughout the country from May 19 to May 26, Captain Marjorie Weber announced today.

"The Salvation Army has continued to grow and expand because the citizens of Sedalia and other cities and towns throughout the United States have not only given material support to our organization, but their time as well," Captain Weber said.

Our theme this year is, "With Heart to God and Hand to Man," Captain Weber added.

Some of the services provided by the Salvation Army in Sedalia include religious and character building activities for youth and adults, Golden Agers Club, family service and transient relief, disaster emergency service, League of Mercy, etc.

These services could not be provided without community help and support. The Salvation Army extends its thanks to all who contribute to its program, directly or through the Sedalia - Pettis County United Fund.

A warm welcome is extended by the Salvation Army to everyone to visit a Salvation Army center during national Salvation Army Week and learn more about how the Salvation Army helps others "With Heart to God and Hand to Man."

May Have Photos Of Thresher

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—An oceanographic scientist said today photographs have been obtained of what appears to be debris on the ocean bottom where the nuclear submarine Thresher is believed lost with 129 men.

The announcement was made at Woods Hole, Mass., by Dr. Paul M. Fye, director of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, who said "it has not been confirmed that these small objects are from the submarine Thresher."

He also said that "no readily identifiable objects are shown, but the pictures are being analyzed and studied by scientists and Navy experts."

Dr. Fye said the photographs were dispatched immediately to the Navy court of inquiry at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

The court is trying to determine what caused loss of the Thresher during a deep-sea test dive 220 miles east of Boston April 10.

Dr. Fye said the photographs were taken by special cameras lowered to within 30 feet of the ocean bottom where the water is more than 8,000 feet deep.

The photographs were delivered to Woods Hole Wednesday by the research vessel Atlantis II.

Russian Trawler Near US Monitor

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—A Soviet trawler of the type the Soviets use for electronic snooping was sighted today near a U.S. ship monitoring astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight, an informed source said.

A U.S. destroyer sighted the trawler in international waters in the general vicinity of the American ship Coastal Sentry, which is monitoring Cooper's flight and making his re-entry at the end of the 22-orbit flight.

The trawler's mission has not been determined, the source said.

A. Streeter and Donald L. Street.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

W. W. Williams

Funeral services for W. W. Williams, 86, 416 East Chestnut, who died Tuesday, were at the Church of the Open Bible at 2 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. Edward D. Vance, pastor, officiated.

Miss Anita Joyce Kelley and Mrs. Edward D. Vance sang "In the Garden" and "Beyond the Sunset."

Burial was in Berea Cemetery. The body was at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Ethelene H. Neal

The body of Mrs. Ethelene H. Neal, wife of Emmett A. Neal, Sr., who died at Camarillo, Calif., Wednesday morning, will arrive in Kansas City at 9:40 p.m. Thursday and will be brought to the Ewing Funeral Home here.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of Mrs. Neal's family from Sylmar, Calif.

Mrs. Ola Lees

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Glensted Methodist Church for Mrs. Ola Irene Lees, 80, 2702 East 12th, who died Tuesday. The Rev. Raymond Rumbo, Versailles, officiated.

Burial was in the church cemetery.

Court Decisions May Cause Extra Work For Prosecutors—

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton said today three recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions may cause some additional work for state prosecutors and courts in protecting the rights of defendants.

But, he added, "freedom, liberty and due process are too precious to be compromised by a time clock or mere procedural detail."

Eagleton cited the decisions on the rights of defendants in a speech prepared for the Missouri Judicial Conference.

"I know," he said, "that the courts of our state will continue to dispense the high quality of justice they have so nobly done in the past and will ably apply the doctrines of these Supreme Court decisions as scrupulously as possible."

Votes On May 21

Opposite Wheat Referendum Sides Stage Hot Campaign

FARGO, N.D. (AP)—Here in the nation's largest spring wheat growing state, the hotly-contested referendum coming up next Tuesday has all the trappings of a big political campaign.

It's estimated $50,000 or more is being spent to influence North Dakota's 112,000 eligible voters. Farmers are being wooed in speeches, newspaper ads, mailed circulars, billboards and radio announcements.

The men of the soil, who usually retire early for the next day's chores, can catch a new version of the late show on television—a series of 1½ hour panel programs on the referendum beamed over several stations this week.

The wheat referendum also is a major issue in other upper plains states, including Montana, South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The battle looms largest in North Dakota, which produces more than twice as many bushels of spring wheat as the other states combined, and where the net income from wheat will be about $164 million this year.

Ed Smith, president of the North Dakota Farmers Union, predicts:

"If we can carry 75 per cent of the state's vote, I think it'll be enough to swing the two-thirds majority for passage nationally."

Esser Files

The Farm Bureau is just as zealously plugging to beat the proposal.

Clark Robinson, head of the North Dakota Farm Bureau, says, "We came close to beating it last year. We're out to do better this time."

Farmers voted 69.4 per cent in favor of government controls last year, close to the national total.

The referendum also is stirring up a lot of controversy among South Dakota farmers.

Ben Radcliffe, state president of the Farmers Union contends a "no" vote will cost farmers $30 million in wheat income, with supports dropping to $1.22 a bushel.

The State Farm Bureau president, John Foster, argues that "all this talk about $1 and $2 wheat is not true. If the wheat referendum passes, it would also serve to take away the incentive from the wheat producer to constantly be striving to produce good wheat."

Frank Schulz, who farms 21 acres of wheat near Yankton, calls production controls a necessary evil, adding: "the law of supply and demand will work if you control the supply to fit the demand."

A new factor that could play a role with predictions is the small-grower vote. Farmers with 19 acres and less of wheat are balloting for the first time and have as much voting strength as a farmer whose wheat lands stretch out to the horizon.

In Minnesota, for instance, there are 64,603 farms where wheat is grown, but only 10,518 have allotments of more than 15 acres.

Only 39 per cent of eligible Minnesota growers cast ballots last year but Sam Peterson of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office says regulation of the smaller growers has been running heavy.

He points out many of those planting only a few acres figure the wheat referendum has a bearing on the government's role generally in the entire farm program.

Hear Report On Junior College Here

The Sedalia Lions Club, Wednesday, heard a report on the proposal for a Junior College for Sedalia as given by Sam Boyle, Manager-Secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce. Boyle, in his talk, explained the proposal and answered questions regarding the administration of such a college in Sedalia.

He told of two meetings in reference to the project during which it was brought up and agreed upon to investigate the possibilities and methods of operation. Boyle emphasized that neither the School Board, nor Dr. Thomas Norris, superintendent of schools, were endeavoring to push the proposal.

"It will be strictly up to the people of Sedalia," Boyle said, "to express their desires for such a college and if they desire to support it. A survey reveals a great many of Sedalia students of Smith-Cotton and Sacred Heart high schools, as well as students in high schools in the various parts of the county, appear deeply interested in attendance of such a college in Sedalia. A junior college will make it possible for a lot of boys and girls to get a college education who would not get it if they depended on leaving home to go to college."

The speaker was introduced by program chairman Don Weller.

President James Van Wagner gave a report on the State Convention of Missouri Multiple District 26, Lions International which was held in Kansas City the past weekend.

International Counsellors E. B. Smith and D. Kelly Scruton were called upon for a few remarks. Norman Ramsey of St. Louis was a guest at the meeting of Carlin Pruitt.

President Van Wagner again called attention to the coming annual broom sale of the local club, June 11 and 12, which funds derived from the sale will be used for blind work and other charitable activities of the Club.

Net $510.39 To Benefit Children

The K-Jo Kindergarten netted the sum of $510.39 with its annual ice cream social held on Friday, May 3, for the Children's Therapy Center at Bothwell Hospital was presented to J. D. Walker, director of the center.

This is a big event each year for the kindergarten youngsters who get a real thrill from getting ready for it and selling tickets so they can give money to the center.

Mrs. Don Lamm, Jr., and Mrs. M. E. Rhoads, Jr., who have the kindergarten announced the names of the winners in the ticket sale contest as follows: Dana Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cook, 1320 Maple Lane Dr., the grand champion ticket seller, with 94 tickets, and not too far behind was Ginger Herrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Herrick, 1216 West 11th, who sold 89 tickets. Others who rated well in ticket selling ability were Nancy Lindstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lindstrom, 1804 South Warren; Nancy Preuitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Preuitt, 13th and Beacon; Mark

At Gallatin Meeting

$275 Million Grand River Control Project Proposed

GALLATIN, Mo. (AP)—A $275 million program for flood control and water storage in the Grand River basin of northwest Missouri was outlined Wednesday night by Army engineers. It would include seven multi-purpose reservoirs and extensive levee and channel improvements.

Col. A. P. Rollins, district engineer, told a meeting that the plan—culmination of more than 30 years of study—will be submitted to Washington, where it must win approval by the chief of engineers, other federal and state agencies and Congress before construction funds are voted.

The seven dams in the 7,900-square mile Grand River basin, which includes south-central Iowa, would have permanent storage capacity of 3,317,000 acre feet of water for municipal, industrial and recreation purposes. They would have 3½ million acre feet of additional capacity for flood storage—capable of handling the worst flood of record on the Grand, in 1947.

Rollins said the program would revitalize the economy of northwest Missouri by stabilizing farming, attracting new industry and creating a $4-million-a-year outdoor recreation boom.

The proposed reservoirs: Pattonburg — On the Grand River five miles above Gallatin forming a 42,000-acre lake. Key to the whole plan, it would include a 35,000-kilowatt power plant. It also would require relocation of the towns of Pattonburg, Santa Rosa and Gentryville and portions of the Wabash, Burlington and Rock Island railroads.

Trenton — On the Thompson River about five miles northwest of Trenton and 2.5 miles above the mouth of the Weldon River, forming a 32,000-acre lake. It would affect the towns of Brinson Mt. Moriah and Melbourne.

Mercer — On the Weldon River, six miles north of Princeton and three miles southwest of Mercer, forming a 12,600-acre lake extending five miles into Iowa along the Weldon River and about three miles along the Little River arm.

Linneus — On Yellow Creek four miles northwest of Linneus, forming a 15,500-acre lake. This would involve relocation of Browning, Mo., and a portion of the Burlington Railroad. It is designed to protect Pershing State Park from flood damage.

Brookfield — On Yellow Creek about five miles northwest of Brookfield, forming a 4,600-acre lake.

St. Catherine — On East Yellow River about five miles north of Marcelline, forming a 4,300-acre lake.

Braymer — On Shoal Creek about six miles north and one mile east of Braymer, forming an 11,500-acre lake. It would require relocation of some Rock Island trackage.

Rollins said the plan also encompasses channel improvement and levee construction along the Grand, in the Three Forks area above Pattonburg Reservoir and on some of the lower basin tributary streams.

He mentioned 20 miles of channel improvement and 110 miles of new or improved levees along the lower main stem; 14 miles of channel work and 40 miles of levee along Medicine Creek and its tributary, Muddy Creek; 27 miles of channel improvement along Big Creek in Carroll County; Honey Creek, No Creek and East Muddy Creek; and 36 miles of channel rehabilitation and 62 miles of levees in the Three Forks area.

Rollins said the local protection works would require sponsorship but that in the overall $275 million program, federal funds would be used for all except $3 million of the cost.

The district engineer said the recreation features of the proposed feature would be a major factor.

AFL-CIO Executives Call For a Tax Cut

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A $10 billion tax cut plus increased federal spending were urged Wednesday by the Executive Council of the AFL-CIO "to get America back to work."

The resolution called for the proposed tax cut to be retroactive to last Jan. 1. It would provide the economy "with the maximum thrust of high-velocity buying power," the statement said.

Chicken Cheap Main Course On Weekend Menu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The housewife who serves chicken this weekend can serve a main course that costs only about 20 cents a person.

However, beef is an attractive alternative.

Chickens are now at or near their lowest prices of the year, reflecting a 4 per cent rise in production.

Prices are running about the same as last year's seasonal low level of about 39 cents a pound, though surveys show that buyers who snatch up bargain attractions can save as much as 30 per cent.

Beef is another attraction for bargain hunters.

One national chain is running a special of 55 cents a pound on rib roasts this weekend in its New York outlets.

Beef cuts also were lower in most other parts of the country, including the Far West, while pork prices generally were rising.

Cottage cheese and several other cheeses are down in price in

Kidney Transplants Given Little Chance

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A leading surgeon says there's little hope of transplanting kidneys from one human being to another even though surgical techniques are adequate.

Dr. Willard Goodwin of Los Angeles, speaking at the American Urological Association meeting Wednesday, said some solution can be developed with additional laboratory knowledge.

Only 25 of 190 patients who have had experimental kidney transplants have lived more than three months, he said, and only seven have lived a year or more.

However, transplantation of kidneys between identical twins is an accomplished procedure, he said.

many markets. Egg and milk prices have slipped a cent or two a quart in some areas.

Vegetable bargains include celery, sweet corn and onions.

Fruit prospects are less cheering, with citrus supply running from 26 per cent smaller for oranges to 31 per cent smaller for lemons. That's the winter freeze, still making itself felt.

Machinist Union Vote Spells End To Squabble

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The AFL-CIO Machinists' Union's acceptance of a new contract with the Boeing Co. spells the end of 10 months of bickering and three threatened strikes at the big aerospace firm.

For the 41,000 hourly workers to whom it applies, the pact spells financial reward and an end to uncertainty.

Best estimates Wednesday after word the contract was approved 14,205 to 4,688 in last Friday's balloting was almost $30-million in salary increases during the three-year life of the agreement, with an average retroactive pay of about $200.

In the Seattle-Renton area, where the firm is headquartered and where about 31,000 of the affected employees work, it means that about $5 million will be pumped into the local economy in a special payday June 21.

Camp David Restful Spot For Kennedys

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy have "discovered" and grown to love what may be the only place in the world where the nation's first family can enjoy complete privacy.

This unusual retreat is Camp David, Md., a Navy-operated reservation atop one of the Catoctin Mountains some 65 miles north of Washington.

Although three earlier presidents used the camp, Kennedy and his family only began making regular visits this spring—more or less as a matter of necessity. But now they can hardly tear themselves away, even to go to the usual Kennedy summering spot at Hyannis Port, Mass.

The first family's newly found love of Camp David was understood to be an important factor in Mrs. Kennedy's decision, announced Wednesday, to delay her summer trip to Hyannis Port from May until late June or July.

Here is perhaps the principal reason why the Kennedys have come to look forward to their weekends at Camp David:

The heavily wooded reservation encompasses 129 acres surrounded by high wire fence closely patrolled by armed Marine guards. This means that, within the vast compound, Kennedy and members of his family can roam freely without Secret Service agents at their elbows—or even within sight.

That's why Camp David may be the only place in the world where an American president can walk for miles and never see another human being.

In addition to this rare privacy, the camp affords a wide variety of recreational facilities for the President and his family. There is an athletic field, a swimming pool, two tennis courts, a bowling alley, a multi-tee, one-hole golf course, and a skeet shooting range.

Great Lakes Cruises At End of Era

CHICAGO (AP)—It's the last cruise from this port for the last survivor of the once flourishing Great Lakes vacation fleet.

"No one feels very elated about that," comments E. J. Goebel, president of the Georgian Bay Lines.

The firm's good ship S.S. South American leaves Chicago Friday for the traditional tulip festival in Holland, Mich. After this trip the South American will ply between Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Duluth. The 2,200-mile round trip cruise runs until Sept. 15.

There is a nostalgic sadness about the departure of the 331-foot, 450-passenger vessel.

The Georgian Bay Lines formerly operated two ships, the S.S. North American and the S.S. South American.

The North American was sold to a group of Erie, Pa., men who plan to operate her as a ferry between Port Burwell, Ont., and Erie. Built in 1914, a year after the South American, the lake craft has logged about a half century of pleasure cruising on the world's largest inland body of water.

The 100-mile Lake Erie trips between Canada and the United States are part of the sesquicentennial celebration of the battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

The North American will serve as a hotel and showboat at Erie when not ferrying passengers.

Chicago once was the capital port for Great Lakes cruises. Five steamer lines operated as many as 18 cruise craft a week.

In the late 1930s and early 1940s, eight lines operated as many as 12 vessels on weekly cruises out of Cleveland.

The cruise business fell off sharply after World War II. Facing stricter government standards and safety requirements, the lines found it unprofitable to replace obsolete ships.

The automobile, super highways and luxurious roadside motels helped doom slow-boat lake cruises.

Goebel says his dream is to operate a salt-water ship on the lakes. It would make the short lake season economically feasible with a year-round operation. Atlantic cruising would be coupled with three months of Great Lakes journeying.

"But it's only a dream," Goebel says wistfully.

Race Proposal Supported By Businessmen

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A desegregation pact aimed at ending this industrial city's racial unrest has the backing of some of Alabama's most prominent businessmen.

Their names were disclosed Wednesday night amid reports of a budding boycott of stores by white persons opposing the bi-racial agreement.

Both white and Negro leaders say they will stick to the agreement despite efforts to influence white shoppers to boycott downtown merchants.

Negroes, who launched a boycott a year ago in their campaign for desegregation, are appearing in greater numbers in the stores, but merchants report fewer white shoppers. The merchants are worried, and some say the city's economic plight, already bad, is becoming more serious.

Commission Mayor Arthur Hane and Police Commissioner Eugene (Bull) Connor have called on white residents to boycott the downtown merchants in retaliation for the desegregation pact.

A spokesman for a citizens committee said release of the names of 77 persons asked to participate in efforts to solve the city's racial problems was designed to avert further violence and to head off a large scale white boycott. The spokesman said "only a few" of the 77 did not participate in the committee's efforts. They were not designated.

In Montgomery, Gov. George C. Wallace, an avid segregationist, accused President Kennedy of setting up a military dictatorship by sending special troops into Alabama for possible use in Birmingham. The governor promised to file a suit in federal court to test the legality of the President's order.

Kennedy ordered 3,000 combat-trained troops to Alabama bases for possible use in Birmingham after bloody rioting erupted in the city last weekend.

A Negro integration leader, the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth Jr., was convicted in City Court of parading without a permit in a mass march April 12. He was sentenced to 180 days in jail, fined $100 and released under an appeal bond of $2,500.

Says Bickering Could Block Education Plans

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Regional bickering could block important programs for Missouri's progress, especially in education, Gov. John M. Dalton said Wednesday night.

He spoke of Missouri's sales tax increase, which will go into effect this fall, and said: "We cannot do justice to the taxpayers who supply this new revenue if we collect it as Missourians and then try to spend it as sectionalists."

The governor singled out education as a field where the state should meet sectional needs without local jealousies and empire building programs.

He spoke of his proposal for educational television, killed by a House committee, and said it was praised by educators, technicians and the Federal Communications Commission.

"It would have reached every schoolroom in the state," the governor said. "There was a million dollars in federal matching funds available."

"Unhappily, however, it had no special interest—no lobby, no union, no industrial group—to help it on its way through the legislative chambers. Unhappily also it was a comparatively new idea."

"It was the remains of the old mossback spirit that stood in the way of our creating a state educational television network."

Kennedy Dogs Rate Lower License Digits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prestige is going to the dogs in the nation's capital.

John Nelson, assistant chief of the District of Columbia Licensing Bureau, said Wednesday that President Kennedy's three dogs will be given the low-number prestige of 1, 2 and 3 on their licenses this year.

Charlie, a Welsh terrier belonging to the Kennedy family has been the No. 1 dog in town for more than a year. But Pushinka, a gift from Soviet Premier Khrushchev, and Clipper, the family's German shepherd, had been relegated to the fairly low status of Nos. 9 and 10.

The new lineup means downgrading for the canine licenses of two other well known families. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's Beagle will drop from No. 2 to No. 4. And FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's Cairn terriers will slip from Nos. 3 and 4 to 5 and 6.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

INTRUDER: A man raced past uniformed guards at the front gate of the White House Wednesday and ran 15 to 20 yards inside the grounds before he was overtaken.

He was grabbed in an arm lock, deposited in a patrol wagon and whisked away before newsmen reached the scene—and ran into a stone wall of silence set up by White House officials.

The account of the intrusion was supplied by a number of bystanders. According to one report he carried a pair of scissors. Asked about this, a White House police officer said: "Whatever he had was taken away."

The northwest gate to the White House grounds on Pennsylvania avenue was open because a group of congressional wives was leaving the executive mansion after a luncheon.

Washington police identified the intruder as Edgar L. Clayborn, 34, of no fixed address. He was taken to District General Hospital for mental observation.

GUARD: The Army has identified four National Guard infantry divisions and two armored Guard divisions in the East and South as ones that would be called up early in the event of emergency.

The identification Wednesday was a change in long-standing policy. The Army had refused to identify the six, saying their disposition is a security matter under war plans.

The six priority divisions are the 42nd Infantry of New York, the 26th Infantry of Massachusetts, the 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania, the 30th Infantry of North Carolina, the 50th Armored of New Jersey and the 30th Armored of Tennessee.

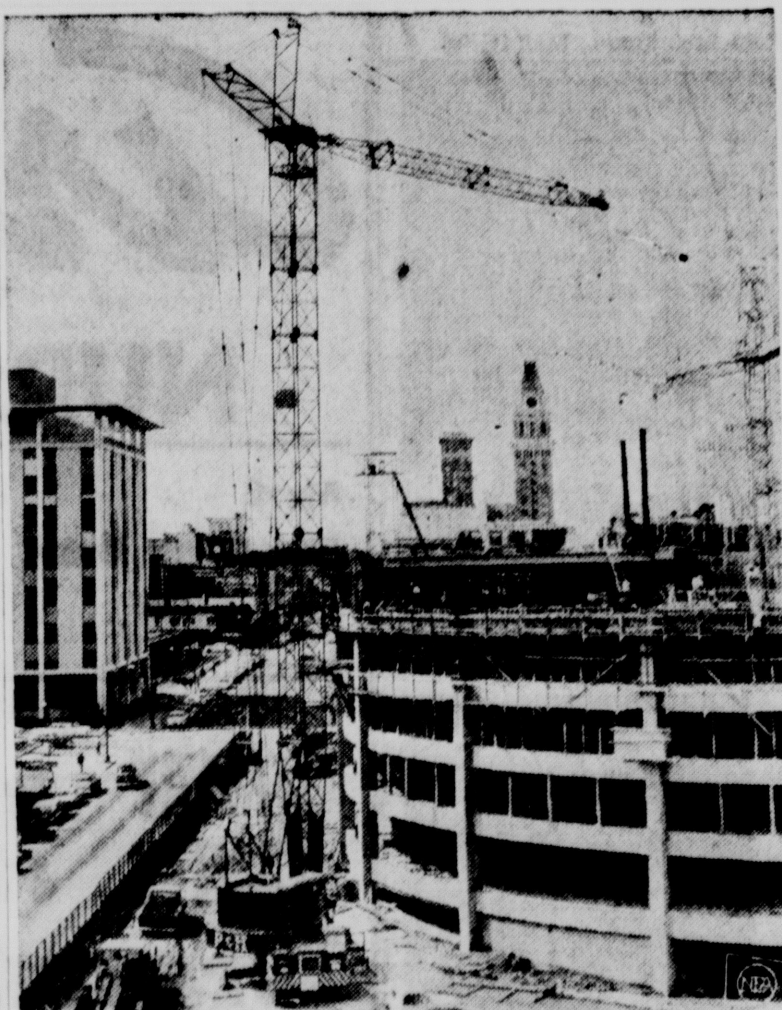

At the same time, the Army said the 38th Infantry of Indiana and the 47th Infantry of Minnesota have been assigned special missions. The announcement did not say so, but it is known the two divisions would be sent to reinforce Alaska and the Panama Canal Zone in an emergency.

VA HOUSING: The Veterans Administration reports veterans housing activities increased in three of four categories during April.

VA housing starts climbed from 4,924 in March to 7,241 in April. Appraisal requests for existing units rose from 14,784 in March to 16,693, and applications for home loan guaranty climbed from 15,069 to 16,996.

Appraisal of new units declined from 13,254 in March to 12,161 in April.

Says School for Bachelors Should Be a Reform School

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Schools for bachelors?

Why? After discussing recently the idea of special schools to prepare girls to be wives and boys to be husbands, I received the following letter:

"You have the shoe on the wrong foot, brother."

"One of the biggest problems in the world today is the population explosion. What is the cause of it? Too many husbands and wives. They are the ones who have children."

"Instead of schools to make more wives and more husbands, why not instead create schools to train more lads to become, happy, independent, self-respecting bachelors? This would automatically also result in more spinsters, thus shutting off the human population explosion at its source."

"Most husbands today aren't men. They're henpecked slaves who've sold their masculine birthright down the river. The modern women of today aren't worth the powder it takes to blow their big ears off anyway."

The letter was signed, "A thoughtful bachelor of 68 golden years—and proud of it."

At first glance the proposal advanced by this hale and hearty old single-footer seems to have at least a spurious merit.

It certainly is true that in the long run a marked increase in the supply of bachelors would gradually slow down the birth rate. But is this the best way to go about it? Would America be much better off with millions more bachelors around? The answer would seem to be a firm "No!"

There is no doubt that at times a family finds a certain type of bachelor handy. In return for a home-cooked meal, he performs chores around the house, baby-sits the kids while the parents go to the movies, fills in as a fourth at bridge, and cheerfully squires your departing mother-in-law to the air terminal.

We had a number of such bachelors hanging around our house when we were first married. But they were only temporary bachelors. As soon as they saw the joys of home life, they wandered off and got married themselves.

There remained a single hard-core bachelor whom I'll call Albert. He couldn't sew on a button. When the garbage had to be carried out, he suddenly developed a bad case of tired hands. All he could do was stick his feet under our table and eat.

Well, finally my wife became aware of Albert's double-dealing nature, and one fine spring night she tossed him out.

The fact about most permanent bachelors is they are simply male clinging vines. They are responsibility-dodgers who aren't avoiding marriage so much as they are looking for a new father and mother to take care of them.

Schools for bachelors?

Maybe it's a good idea at that. Reform schools—where they could learn to grow up and face life like real men.

NEW YORK (AP)—Compared to sweatshops of the past, the modern business office would seem a healthy place to earn a dollar.

It is comfortable, air-conditioned and so well lighted one can work out a crossword puzzle on the job surreptitiously without danger of eye strain.

But for some reason most offices resembled battlefield aid stations. They are full of the walking wounded and incipient stretcher cases.

Naturally, many of the illnesses of the white collar worker are imaginary. He invents them to help pass the time. If you have ever labored in a paper clip salt mine, here are a few swivel chair hypochondriacs you may find familiar:

"Fridayitis"—This guy draws his pay on Thursday so he can have a longer weekend to spend his money.

"Mondayitis"—Very popular with suburbanites this time of year. Also called "The Green Thumb Disease." Victims complain of dizziness and backstrain. Cause: Too much Saturday and Sunday gardening.

"Fridayitis-Mondayitis"—This fellow is mad at the corporation and phones in sick two days a week so he can look for a better job on company time.

"Two Buck Emacius"—The office gambler looks like he is suffering from a wasting disease. Actually he is merely suffering from starvation, because he loses all his money at the racetrack.

"Florence Nightingale Syndrome"—The boss' secretary is a mother hen who clucks constantly over the illness of others.

"Cleanliness Complex"—He has a phobia that everyone else in the place is trying to push their germs off on him. If you sneeze within 75 feet of him, he rushes to the company medical office.

Date Is Set By Chamber For Barbecue

The date of the beef barbecue was set for June 27, at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board members held Tuesday afternoon. The barbecue is sponsored by the agriculture division of the Chamber, of which Dick Monsees is director, and Dr. Robert Gouge is general chairman, and will be held in the new agriculture building at the Missouri State fairgrounds from 6 to 8 p.m. Tickets for the barbecue will be available from members of the committee and directors of the Chamber and retail merchants at a date closer to the event.

Monsees also told of Dairy Day which will be the evening of June 7, when, among other things planned, an ice cream social will be held on the court house parking lot.

Sam Boyle, executive manager, told of a meeting of a group of Sedalians attended Monday in Jefferson City on the Missouri Community Betterment Program. Awards will be given for cities meeting certain standards, Boyle explained, and signs will be placed at the city limits designating the things in which the city has qualified to win the award, or awards.

The standards, Boyle continued, are education, and here he pointed out that the Sedalia educational system had just been rated Triple A, which is the best you can get; community planning, utilities, streets, community services, leisure time activities and various other things. He stated that he thought it might be well to enter the contest, and pointed out that the idea was to improve the cities throughout the state.

The meeting was presided over by P. Cecil Owen, president, and other officers and directors attending were: Dan Robinson, first vice president; Carl Yates, Jr., second vice president; Sam Boyle, executive manager; Mrs. Vivian Warren, treasurer; H. W. Harris, Dick Monsees, Louis Hughes, Jr., Elmer McClung, Lou Tempel, Jr., Dr. T. J. Norris and George Ray, directors.

Sikeston Merchants Asking for New Bank

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP)—A group of businessmen have applied for establishment of a first National Bank in Sikeston with a proposed capital structure of $500,000.

The request was made to the comptroller of currency in Washington by Weber Gilmore, Thomas C. McClure, W. W. Fitzgerald, Keith L. Zeigenhorne and J. E. Moore Jr., all of Sikeston.

has his throat sprayed, and lies down for an hour.

"Old Grumpy Himself"—Whenever the boss falls ill, the nature of his malady is regarded as top secret. But whatever it is, the only known cure is a week of golfing in Florida.

The trouble with office hypochondriacs is that when anyone comes down with a disease a doctor can actually diagnose, he crawls painfully to work, even though he feels at death's door, for fear everyone else will feel he is malingering.

TV Networks Record US Space Feat

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—As the seconds ticked away, one could feel the mounting tension at Cape Canaveral. It was in the background of the television and radio commentators, in spite of their best efforts to be brisk and business-like. And it was inside the millions of people who for 24 hours had waited and watched to see the Faith 7 and its human cargo boosted into space.

Later, in the continuing reviews and recaps, on all three major TV networks, through the afternoon and evening, it was merely interesting to see—once again—a huge missile roar into the sky. By then we knew that the launching had been practically perfect and the capsule was in, as they said, "the textbook orbit." But watching it live was something else entirely, even after five other shoots. The viewers' palms were moist, his breath was short at the critical moment.

Unfortunately, the television broadcast from the tiny, slow-scan camera inside the capsule, was so fuzzy that the uninitiated could identify little of anything. One gathered that it was the helmet and head of the astronaut at the upper left of the picture but it could have been any object. Maybe it will be better next time.

Throughout the day, the networks followed the flight's progress. There were bulletins on the half hour and there were printed news on the screens, otherwise occupied by the endless parade of time-killing light diversion. Thus

Union Spokesman Not Predicting Strike

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A union spokesman says he doesn't think Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union members will strike the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. before the Oklahoma Board of Arbitration and Conciliation makes a report.

Hugh Campbell, international representative of the AFL-CIO union, said Wednesday night "I am confident that Robert M. Bickel (district union director) will be able to keep the people on the job until this board meets and brings out its recommendation."

Bickel had said union members in Oklahoma and Kansas would strike at midnight Wednesday unless an arbitration board was named. Gov. Henry Bellmon and Bill Hughes, state labor commissioner named the board Wednesday.

Hubbard 1946 Class Has First Reunion

The 1946 Class of C. C. Hubbard High School had its first reunion last weekend. The group attended retirement services for the school principal, C. H. Gooch Friday evening.

At 8 p.m. Saturday a dinner was held in the Blue Room of the Pacific Cafe with 20 in attendance. Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maupins, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Petty, Mr. and Mrs. L.A. Boggess. Mr. Jones was a member of the class as were Mrs. Maupins, Mrs. Petty and Mrs. Boggess.

we at home knew in remarkable detail the temperature inside the capsule, even inside the suit, the moment the astronaut tried some exercises, started some experiments and even when he decided to eat lunch.

CBS moved fast Wednesday, chopping approximately in half a scheduled hour-long "CBS Reports" and adding a quick postscript to its recent treatment of Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring." It was broadcast Wednesday night within hours after release of a federal report on insecticides urging more study of their use and effects.

Miss Carson and her book were credited by commentator Eric Severeid with starting the sharp controversy over the effects of modern chemical killers on the balance of nature and mankind itself. On the program, Miss Carson said she felt vindicated by the report. A spokesman for the chemical industry was given an opportunity to restate its position—that the insecticides are safe if used as directed.

It was smart, alert journalism. And it didn't hurt to edit a dull and meandering exploration of the pros and cons of federal farm subsidies.

Bob Hope apparently taped the opening comedy monologue of his final NBC show of the season some time ago. It contained no references to spaceman Cooper, Birmingham or Haiti—just wisecracks about all the expectant Kennedy's. The whole program, including golf lessons by champion Arnold Palmer, appeared to have been tossed together on the spur of the moment.

Uncle Miltie Predicts Big Gross By 'Mad, Mad World'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—The big fel- low waved a seven-inch cigar and almost set on fire Olivia de Havil- land, seated at the next dining room table.
"I predict it will bring in $100 million to $125 million, the great- est gross of all time," boomed Milton Berle. "It is the greatest comedy classic of the last 50 years. It will never wear out. The perpetuity of it is fantastic."
"Why, they destroy 38 brand new cars in it."
"Why, the screen writer, Wil- liam Rose, got $350,000 and a per- centage of the picture for a two- paragraph letter outlining the idea —the most ever paid for a com- edy script."
The film is Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," a multimillion dollar-pro- duction starring Berle and 14 oth- ers. They include Spencer Tracy, Ethel Merman, Sid Caesar, Doro- thy Provine, Edie Adams, Mickey Rooney, Jonathan Winters and Jimmy Durante.
"What impressed you most about the film?" asked an inno- cent bystander.
"I don't know—I haven't seen it yet," said Berle.
Nearing 55, Uncle Miltie is celebrating his 50th year in show busi- ness.

"As my wife remarked, it took me 50 years to be a star over- night," he said.
His friends say time has changed the irrepressible comic, turned him into a calmer, more relaxed man. Maybe so. But where- ever Uncle Miltie is—that's still the center of the stage. "I've cut down from 17 cigars a day to 10," he said, "and I like to spend more time at home with my family. I still like to do two films a year, a couple of TV shots and eight weeks in night clubs."
"I'll never give up the night clubs because of the feeling of rapport you get working with a live audience. I love it."
Although he says he's tired of traveling, he'll spend nine weeks this summer touring with a tent show in the leading role of "Top Banana." The big appeal to him here again is a new kind of live audience.
But he has no regrets that his days as "Mr. Television," a title he held for 10 years, are over.
"I've had my share of televi- sion," he remarked. "And I'm well taken care of financially."
"In 1951 I signed a 30-year ex- clusive network contract with NBC under which they'll pay me until 1981—I have to dignify mon- ey—an amount that runs to six figures a year."
That means a minimum $3 mil- lion during the life of the contract.

1,000 Year-Old Ceremony To Be Reenacted Saturday

Harking back to an old Indian custom of 1,000 years ago the State Park Board will hold a ceremony at Washington State Park at the Indian petroglyph site. The ceremony to be held by the Park Board at 2 p.m. central daylight savings time, Saturday, will be to dedicate the modern protective shelter over the outstanding archaeological remains. The petroglyphs are ceremonial symbols carved in the rocks at the State Park.

A thousand years ago ceremonies were performed by the Indians at this sacred spot. The Indians who held the ceremonies were from the great Mississippi Indian metropolis at St. Louis and the American Bottoms to the east, where east St. Louis now stands. These "Mississippi" Indians built the large flat topped ceremonial mounds on which they erected temples and chiefs' houses. One of the mounds, the Mounds Mound in Cahokia State Park, Illinois, is the largest Indian mound in North America.

The inhabitants, a thousand years ago of the great metropolis of St. Louis and East St. Louis, had relatives who lived in many smaller villages scattered along the Mississippi River from Cape Girardeau to Alton, Ill. At certain times these villagers met at what is now Washington State Park to perform initiation ceremonies and to renew the carvings on the stones. The symbols were thought to have magical properties to produce rain for crops, fertility for the crops, the people, and the animals they hunted, and good feeling and cooperation for all the people. The symbols are ordered in groups that are associated with hunting, fertility, and rain, and these in turn are related to each other by arrows and trails. All are depicted in the rocks. There are carvings of thunderbirds, turtles, snakes, animals of various kinds, people and houses, and fertility emblems. This sacred spot was at the junction of war and hunting trails and must have been visited fairly frequently in order to hold ceremonies to teach the young people the mysteries and workings of life.

Ceremonial use of the petroglyph site was abandoned nearly 1,000 years ago with the decline of the great Indian center and metropolis at St. Louis and East St. Louis and the breaking up of the alliance between the townspeople from Cape Girardeau to Alton, Ill.

Saturday, a new ceremony will be held in connection with the petroglyphs. Joseph Jaeger, Jr., director of the State Parks will be the Master of Ceremonies at the Dedication of the new shelter over the Indian petroglyphs at Washington State Park near DeSoto. The building to be dedicated is an 85 by 28 foot shelter to protect these unusual rock carvings. Dedication speaker will be Dr. John M. Corbett, chief archaeologist, National Park Service, Washington, D.C. Also on the program are Henry W. Hamilton, president of the Missouri Archaeological Society and Dr. Carl H. Chapman, director of American Archaeology, University of Missouri and chairman of the Advisory Council on Archaeology to the State Park Board, and Ruby Green, chairman of the Missouri State Park Board. The DeSoto High School Band will furnish music for the occasion.

The exceptional group of Indian symbols preserved by the new naturally lighted shelter will be explained by staff archaeologists from the University of Missouri and advanced students in archaeology. Of special interest will be paintings by Richard A. Marshall, director of the Museum of Anthropology, University of Missouri. Marshall's paintings reconstruct the life of the Indian people who carved the symbols at the sacred spot now preserved by the State Park Board. A showing of the tools employed in making the carvings and a demonstration of their use will follow the dedication ceremony at 2 p.m. central daylight savings time.

There will also be an outstanding exhibit of engraved ceremonial stones from the Archaeological Research Center at Van Meter State Park. These special displays and explanations will be available only at the dedication ceremony. The public is invited.

The Missouri Archaeological Society will participate in the dedication and will hold their annual spring meeting at Washington State Park the next day. Speakers at the spring meeting will be Dr. John M. Corbett, chief archaeologist, National Park Service, Washington, D.C., and Frank Magre, Crystal City, Magre, who will speak on Indian petroglyphs of southeastern Missouri, is a trustee of the Missouri Archaeological Society.

Retires at Hubbard

Pay Tribute to C. H. Gooch For 37 Years As a Teacher

Friday evening was a wonderful occasion for C. H. Gooch, retiring principal of C. C. Hubbard School, when many citizens of Sedalia and surrounding communities paid tribute to him at a retirement program sponsored by the staff of Hubbard School, where he has taught for 37 years, serving the last seven as its principal.

The program opened with a prelude of music by Mrs. Gloria Shepard, first grade teacher and former student of Prof. Gooch. The invocation was given by the Rev. W. H. Hickman, who was a student of his at Boonville.

Former students formed the singing group composed of Gloria Shepard, Ardona Byrd, Ramona Bass, Kathryn Gooch Rayford, Louella Browder, Geraldine Jones, Adele Ray and Novella Jones, who sang "My Buddy."

Mrs. Josephine Purnell, English instructor, then told of the occasion for the celebration and a narrative, "Echoes of the Past," on events in the career of Prof. Gooch was presented with H. E. Browder serving as commentator. In this narrative the many ways that the guest of honor had contributed to the molding of the characters of boys and girls through his service to the Boy Scouts, oratory, athletics, science and ideals of citizenship.

Mrs. Barbara Peyton Abernathy of East St. Louis, Ill., a former oratorical student, was present and spoke, and Mrs. Angeline Briscoe, former student and a native of the Philippine Islands, also gave a short talk.

The elementary school chorus, directed by Kathryn Gooch Rayford, his daughter, then sang two selections.

Others appearing on the program paying tribute to the retiring educator were: Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of Sedalia public schools; E. G. Kehde, Jr., president of the board of education; P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education; Mrs. Dorothy Kitchen, former student and assistant principal; and Mrs. Elnora Green, president of Hubbard School PTA.

There were many expressions of appreciation for his years at Hubbard among which was a scrap book of memories containing letters and cards of congratulations and a purse made in the industrial arts containing $395 from former students and friends. The presentation was made by Mrs. Ramona Bass, a former student, and school secretary.

A color slide projector was the gift from the employees of Hubbard School with Mrs. Novella Jones and Joe Ware, teachers making the presentation.

Mrs. Elnora Green then presented him a check for $37, representing a dollar for each year of service, in behalf of the PTA, and with this a life membership medal.

The students of Hubbard School gave him a large book plaque, inscribed "The books of knowledge you have opened for many, now they can open for you 17 plus 22, in appreciation of your service to us." Charles Rice, captain of the football team presented a hassock from team members and the coach.

A poem, "Echoes of the Past," composed in honor of Prof. Gooch, was given at the conclusion of the program, after which a reception was held.

Echoes of the past roll back the time . . .

A job well done . . . victory is sublime

Times have changed . . . and so have you.

Since those early years you first knew . . .

The days were longer . . . the dollars few . . .

But a job well done meant most to you.

Echoes of the past softly bring tears

As you think of students of by-gone years

Out into the world they went to toil . . .

To gain their fortune from that back yard of soil.

Echoes of the past bring peace of mind . . .

Soothing regrets you leave behind . . .

All to be done . . . you could not do . . .

But you gave of your heart and the best you knew.

Echoes of the past are filled with joy . . .

Proud of that girl . . . love that boy . . .

You remember them all . . .

As the years go by some special moment you can recall.

Echoes of the past do not mean the end . . .

But time anew for a life to begin Those little tasks you have waited to do . . .

A well earned rest is waiting for you . . .

The curtain comes down . . . the night to end . . .

Open tomorrow . . . New Echoes to begin.

A framed copy of the poem was presented Prof. Gooch.

Present for the occasion was the sister of Prof. Gooch, Mrs. Florine Bruce of St. Louis, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Susie Murphy of Kansas City.

Fire Plays Part

A Rousing Day For the Angels

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a tough day for the Los Angeles Angels. First they were routed out of their hotel by a fire, then routed out of Fenway Park by a fiery first baseman.

Dick Stuart, who says he's worried about his hitting, drove in seven runs on two homers—one a grand slam—and led Boston to a doubleheader sweep of the Angels, 9-3 and 7-6 Wednesday night.

Stuart's heroics propelled the surprising Red Sox into second place in the American League, one game back of the Chicago White Sox, who scored a 7-4 victory over Detroit.

Mudcat Grant blanked Kansas City 1-0 on a two-hitter for Cleveland and Baltimore whipped Washington 7-1 on Milt Pappas' three-hitter in other night games, while the New York Yankees edged Minnesota 4-3 in the only day game.

A three-alarm fire in the Hotel Somerset in Boston chased the Angels from their rooms in the early morning hours and the slugging Stuart finished the rout at Fenway Park.

His grand slam in the third inning of the first game put it out of reach. He had a three-run homer in the nightcap, and scored the winning run in the eighth inning.

Stuart lifted his runs batted in total to 24 and increased his home run production to 7, both marks high among the league leaders. But Stuart, hitting only .250, says he isn't satisfied.

"Even if I drive in 100 runs and hit 30 homers, I wouldn't be happy if I hit for the batting average I have right now," he said.

Bill Monbouquette went the distance for the first game victory, beating Bo Belinski, and Dick Radatz won the second in relief.

Grant allowed only a double by Wayne Causey and a single by Chuck Essegian and retired 13 men in a row over one stretch in his outstanding effort against Kansas City. Tito Francona drove in both Indian runs with a first-inning single.

Pappas, 3-0 for the season, retired 18 Senators in order at one stretch in his three-hitter. He lost his shutout when Ken Retzer hit an eighth-inning homer. Jim Gentile, Jackie Brandt and Jerry Adair had homers for the Orioles.

Ron Hansen keyed a five-run fifth-inning for the White Sox with a bases-loaded single and Dave Nicholson stroked a two-run homer in the victory over Detroit. Juan Pizarro won his third without loss, but needed help from Jim Brosnan in the eighth.

Elston Howard's eighth-inning single drove in the tie-breaking run for the Yankees, who handed the stumbling Twins their 11th loss in their last 14 games. Mickey Mantle had a two-run homer in the sixth for the Yanks.

Coach Finley Speaks Before Smithton Teams

Bury 'Big Daddy' In Big Ceremony

DETROIT — (P) — Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, a 290-pound goliath of the National Football League gridiron who amused crowds with his antics for a decade, was buried Wednesday in a ceremony almost as colorful as his career.

The coffin of the 6-foot-6 defensive tackle of the Pittsburgh Steelers was borne down an aisle made of 20 women holding floral tributes by fellow Negro professional football players. Only hours before in Baltimore a medical examiner officially ruled his death the result of an overdose of heroin.

Lipscomb, who played for years with the Baltimore Colts, died early last Friday.

Regard Club As Birthplace Of Pro Golf

LONDON (AP)—The Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews long has been regarded as the birthplace of golf.

She is the mama—hers is the hand that rocked the cradle of the sport that spawned such greats as Walter Hagen, Bob Jones, Ben Hogan and Arnold Palmer, so they say.

Bosh, say the people of Royal Blackheath. They maintain the true birthplace was not St. Andrews but a sylvan area eight miles from London known as Blackheath.

Here's how it happened: Back in the early 17th century, King James I of England, son of Mary Queen of Scots, came south with a few of his blue-blooded courtiers for some sport.

Soon they tired of stag hunting, the popular sport of the day.

The courtiers petitioned the king to open a seven-hole golf course on the sandy ground of Blackheath Common.

James didn't need much convincing. He was the golfing son of a golfing mother, Mary Queen of Scots once was criticized for stepping out and taking a few practice swings after her husband

Merchants Will Make Second Outing Against Columbia, Here

The Sedalia Merchants will be battling for their second win of the season tonight at 8 p. m. as they meet a strong Columbia team on the Liberty Park diamond.

Manager Charlie Newman has given the pitching nod to Skip Schulz, with Bob Brown and Tom Adams ready for relief if needed.

The Merchants own a victory over Warsaw and were set down by the Whiteman AFB team. Schulz started against the Whiteman squad, hurled four innings and gave up only two hits and no runs.

Columbia, who finished fifth last year in the state semi-pro tournament, is reported much improved with at least one ex-major league player, Frank Boyle.

The Merchants tangle with the Columbia team again here Sunday afternoon and travel to Jefferson City on Wednesday night, May 22.

Lord Darnley, had been murdered. Golf soon was in full swing at Blackheath.

The bored aristocrats set up a club at Royal Blackheath in 1608. This was 50 years before the organization of the Royal and Ancient, recognized as the oldest in the world.

Blackheath spokesmen concede that golf may have been played in Scotland and Holland before it turned up in England.

"But we still hold the right to be called the oldest established golf club in the world," the spokesman said.

Braves Win

Hendley Steals The NL Spotlight

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's Bob Hendley made like Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Koufax didn't.

While Koufax was making his first appearance since pitching a no-hitter against San Francisco, Hendley stole the spotlight by hurling the Braves to a 9-3 triumph over St. Louis Wednesday night and coming within two outs of matching the Koufax 4-day-old masterpiece.

Hendley got Julian Javier on a grounder to open the ninth, but pinch-hitter George Altman reached first when Frank Bolling booted his grounder.

That seemed to unsettle Hendley, who was then tagged for a triple to right center by Curt Flood for the first St. Louis hit.

Before Hendley regained his composure, the Cardinals had two more hits and three runs. But nothing could dim the performance of the 24-year-old left-hander, who pitched probably the finest game in his three seasons in the majors.

Koufax was touched for 11 hits, but struck out 12 and won his fourth in a row when Ron Fairly drove in the decisive run with a two-out single in the 12th inning and gave the Dodgers a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia.

In other National League action, first-place San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 4-3. Cincinnati belted Chicago's Cubs 10-2 and the New York Mets downed Houston 7-4, ending the Colst winning streak at six.

After Flood's triple got things started for the Cards, Dick Groat followed with a single. Charley James was safe on an error by Denny Menke and Groat scored the third run on Ken Boyer's single before Hendley worked out of the jam. Menke homered for the first Braves' run in the third inning and Milwaukee continued to pound Curt Simmons, who lost his first after five victories.

Fairly's run-producing single gave Koufax his fifth victory in six decisions. The Dodger southpaw had been lifted for a pinch hitter at the start of the inning after striking out 10 or more in a game for the 43rd time. Jim Gilliam scored the winning run after singling and moving to second on a passed ball. The loss went to Johnny Klippstein, 1-2.

The Giants broke a scoreless tie against loser Don Cardwell in the fifth after Orlando Cepeda led off with the inning's only hit, a pop fly that dropped in short center. Cardwell, now 1-5, walked winning pitcher Juan Marichal to force in one run and hit Felipe Alou to force in another before Bob Bailey bobbled Willie Mays' grounder and let in two more runs. Marichal brought his record to 5-3 with Bob Bolin's relief help.

Frank Robinson led the Reds, collecting a single, double and triple, driving in three runs and stealing a base. Jim Maloney, 5-1, was the winner. Glen Hobbie, 1-4 the loser.

Al Jackson sparked two rallies with singles and drove in a run with a sacrifice fly as he won his fourth against three losses for the Mets. Jackson scattered six hits and had allowed only an unearned run when John Bateman brought the Colts close in the ninth with a three-run homer.

S-C Golfers Finish Season With Victory

Smith-Cotton's golfers finished the season with a 6-3 record Wednesday when they defeated Marshall, there, 315 to 368. Sandy Studer was medalist for the locals, shooting 34-40-74. The other three Tigers attending the meet were Bruce Severson with a 75, John Owen with 82 and Bill Herrick with 84.

Divers Club Members Attend Triathlon Event

Four members of the Sedalia Divers Club participated in the past weekend Midwest Diving Council Triathlon Event held at the Hollister-Long Creek Boat Dock on Lake Table Rock. They Miss Margaret Gates, Bob Overy, Don Kabler and Gale Neinhauser.

Miss Gates, formerly of Joplin before moving to Sedalia, is also a member of the Show Me Divers Club as well as the Sedalia Divers.

Miss Gates teaming with Doris Riggs of Joplin won the women's team event for the most fish by number.

In the women's division of the triathlon event which involved a tri-angular underwater compass course covering 300 feet, Miss Gates placed second while Miss Riggs was the first place individual winner.

The smallest fish trophy was won by Gale Neinhauser whose Chad weighed four ounces. It was the first competition for Neinhauser.

The Aqua Hunters of Wichita, Kan., will be host to the next events to be held on Lake Table Rock May 25 and 26.

To Preside At His Last Spring Meet

MANHATTAN (AP) — Reeves Peters will preside over his last Big Eight spring meeting as executive director starting today, but he'll continue to work for amateur athletics in his own quiet effective way.

Peters wants to stay active in athletics because he's convinced it's the best answer to increasing juvenile delinquency.

"We must do everything we can in programs for youth in the Big cities," he declared. "Thousands of young people have dropped out of school and are without jobs in every major city."

"The playgrounds and programs are available in suburbia, but too often they are being reduced or shut down in the cities."

Peters will retire June 30 at the age of 70. He has handled the business of the conference for 25 years, the first nine as commissioner of officials. He has watched the league grow from six to eight members, with conference members becoming national powers in almost every sport.

He declines to take any credit for this growth, but he deserves a good share.

Peters took the lead in urging the conference to share television and Orange Bowl receipts among all members. He started the conference holiday basketball tourney and indoor track meet, annual events now.

He has been active in various NCAA and Olympic committees.

Peters has been a leader in improving liaison among conferences. He worked with Howard Grubbs, Southwest Conference executive director, in establishing an inter-conference letter of intent agreement for football.

This proved to be a forerunner of a six-conference agreement for all sports which becomes effective May 20. Big Eight faculty representatives are expected to approve it at this meeting.

Wayne Duke, 34, top assistant to NCAA director Walter Byers for 11 years, has been named to replace Peters. The conference is expanding its office and Duke will hire a full-time assistant.

Peters is president of the new Missouri Track and Field Federation and will remain active in it.

He is a native of Warrensburg, Mo., a graduate of Central Missouri State College there and holds a master's degree from Wisconsin. He has more than 70 credit hours of philosophy and psychology and it shows in the diplomatic, dignified way he has handled his job.

Peters was a coach and official for many years before his association with the Big Eight.

"I might even boo the officials when I retire," he said.

Oklahoma State Favored to Win In Big Eight Golf

MANHATTAN (AP)—Oklahoma State is a strong favorite to win the Big Eight Conference golf and tennis championships for the sixth straight year Friday and Saturday at Manhattan.

Oklahoma and Kansas are conceded the best chance for the runner-up spot in tennis. Oklahoma and Colorado are contenders for No. 2 in golf.

Oklahoma State in tennis has the defending singles champion, Bob Folz, and his partner, Larry Cooley, who helped him take the doubles crown. Colorado also is strong in tennis. Only Southern Illinois, with two Latin American Davis Cup players, has beaten OSU this spring.

The golf title will be decided by 54 holes of medal play over a short but demanding Manhattan Country Club layout. Oklahoma State's golf team has lost only to powerful North Texas twice. Houston and Texas A&M. Oklahoma has won its last 16 straight golf duels, but lost twice to the Cowboys.

Cards, A's Drop Games And Ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Hendley and Mudcat Grant made hits almost as scarce as runs for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night.

The Cardinals got only three of each, all in the last inning, as Hendley pitched the Braves to a 9-3 victory in Milwaukee.

Grant allowed just two hits as the Indians downed the A's 1-0 in Cleveland.

With one out in the ninth, Curt Flood ended the no-hit bid by the Braves' lefthander with a triple that scored George Altman, who had reached first on an error.

Dick Groat and Ken Boyer followed with singles for two more tallies.

The defeat was the first for Curt Simmons, who had won five straight.

Wayne Causey doubled in the third and Chuck Essegian singled in the eighth for the Athletics' only hits.

Tito Francona's single in the first gave the Indians their only run in seven innings off Orlando Pena, who gave up only four hits.

Strikeouts Perk Up Interest of Scouts

FARMINGDALE, N. Y. — More than 10 strikeouts in a game? Sandy Koufax seems to do it all the time.

More than 20? Tom Cheney of Washington struck out 21 last season in 16 innings against Baltimore.

But more than 30? No one around here had ever heard of it, until Ken Widman did it, with two to spare.

The handsome, blond pitcher of the Long Island Aggies struck out 32 men in 18 innings in a 2-0 game in the recent district finals of the National Junior College tournament. He also had a no-hit-ter for 9.23 innings.

The performance perked up interest in the 19-year-old right-hander among pro baseball scouts, and they came to the right place. Young Widman has wanted to be a pro ball player all his life, and he is more interested in that right now than even, well, girls. "There's time for them later," he said.

SPECIALIST—Cardinal pitcher Curt Simmons, firing to Tony Taylor in St. Louis, has made a specialty of beating the Phillies since he was released by them three years ago. He shut out his former teammates, 7-0. Catcher is Carl Swatski, plate umpire Al Barlick.

Colorado Favored In Track Meet

MANHATTAN (AP)—Colorado, led by a few top men, is a slight choice over a balanced Missouri team and Oklahoma State's one-man gang, Charles Strong, in the Big Eight track championships Friday and Saturday.

It could be the tightest four-team finish in 25 years. Four meet records already have been surpassed this season and four others closely approached.

Here is a forecast of the team finish, based on the form chart:

Colorado 103, Missouri 92, Oklahoma State 88, Kansas 82, Nebraska 65, Oklahoma 59, Kansas State 21 and Iowa State 17.

Colorado's hopes are carried by four outstanding men — hurdler and dashman Jim Miller, sprinter Dick Burns, jumper Leander Durely and distance man Bob Griffith.

Miller has the league's best high hurdle time at 14.1 seconds and the nation's best 330 hurdles time at 36.2. He is expected to win both events and run on winning 440 and mile relay teams. Colorado has run the 440 relay in 40.8 and the mile relay in 3:10.1, both best in the Big Eight this season.

Burns has run the 100 in 9.6, second only to the 9.5 by Nebraska's Ray Knaub this season, and the 220 in 20.8, compared to the meet record of 20.9. Burns is picked second in both — behind Strong in the 220 — but easily could win both events.

Durely leads the league in both the high jump at 6-8 3/4 and triple jump at 47-10 3/4. But winning both will be a severe challenge. He is picked behind Nebraska's Victor Brooks in the triple jump and No. 2 behind Larry Eilert of Iowa State, the defending high jump champion.

Griffith is picked behind Pat McNeal of Kansas State, who has run the mile in 4:05.3, almost a second under the meet record.

Missouri has the depth to score in almost every event, but only two gold medal favorites. They are Greg Pelster, defending 880 champ who will try for the league record of 1:49, and Roy Bryant, whose 14.41.1 leads the 3-mile field. Griffith won the two-mile last year, probably won't run the 3-mile.

If Strong were twins, Oklahoma State would be a certain champ. He has broadjumped 24-4 3/4, run the 440 in 46.9, both league bests, plus the 220 in 20.9, the 100 in 9.7. He'll shoot for first in the 440, 220, broad jump and will anchor the 440 and mile relay teams.

Victor Brooks, chosen to upset Strong in the broad jump and Durely in the triple jump, is the lone scorer for Nebraska's indoor champs in the seven field events. Kansas is expected to score the most field points, but will have only one gold medal, by Yul Yost, 57-8 shot putter.

Plan to Move Syracuse Nats To Philadelphia

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Subject to league approval, the Syracuse Nationals of the National Basketball Association have been sold to a group of Philadelphia businessmen who plan to move the club to Philadelphia.

Sale of the club for $500,000 was announced late Wednesday night by owner Dan Biasone, who said "it simply got to be impossible to operate." The Nats had been fixtures in Syracuse for 17 years but despite their 48-32 record and second place finish in the Eastern Division last season, the club lost $39,000.

Although the Philadelphia group was not identified at its request, Biasone said the sale was handled by the Philadelphia law firm of Richman, Price and Jamieson.

In Philadelphia, Isaac Richman of the firm said the new owners are a group of businessmen not connected before with sports. He said Eddie Gottlieb, former owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, is not a member of the group. He refused to identify the businessmen and when asked if he thought the league would approve of them, said: "These men are reputable."

Preminger Gives Party For Soviets

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Leave it to Otto Preminger to enliven the social scene with a swinging capitalist affair for a couple of Communists.

The producer tossed an elegant party for Hollywood's smart set on the roof of the Beverly Hilton. The guests of honor: Ivan Piriev, president of the Soviet filmmakers association, and Lev Julidjanov, a prominent Russian director.

As an incidental matter, the party also saluted the end of filming on Preminger's latest movie, "The Cardinal," which was spelled out in carved ice that adorned the hors d'oeuvre table.

The Russians should have much to tell their fellow workers when they get back to Moscow. The meal was elegant, from the Trader Vic's Polynesian appetizers with cocktails to the dessert of giant strawberries, served with side dishes of sour cream and brown sugar.

The Russians seemed intrigued by the tribal customs of the Hollywood natives. They had been invited here as part of a Preminger people-to-people program; he had responded after having been the guest of Soviet film makers in Moscow.

Piriev, who occupies the curious position as producer and worker in the Soviet industry, commented through an interpreter that he found Hollywood film making much like that in his country—a bit bigger crews, perhaps.

He added that he and his comrades had seen and been impressed by "Judgment at Nuremberg," "Lawrence of Arabia" and "How the West Was Won" during their visit here. He liked the Cinemas technique in the latter and added predictably that the Soviet Union has its own Cinemas process.

American hits in the Soviet Union? He mentioned "Roman Holiday," "Lili," "Marty" and to a lesser extent, "War and Peace," an American-Italian production. He said that the Russians are going ahead with their own, definitive "War and Peace," which will run four hours.

The mailing list of the club is not current. Officers may be called for reservations for members and guests at the following numbers: TA6-8866; TA6-5804; TA6-0977; TA6-7888 before noon Monday, May 20.

St. Joseph State Hospital Overcrowded With Children

By ROBERT L. SLATER
The St. Joseph News-Press
Written for The Associated Press
ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Some parents who seek to turn their disciplinary problems over to an institution are contributing to the overcrowded conditions at St. Joseph State Hospital here.

Dr. Manson B. Pettit, hospital superintendent, said the institution has been forced to delay the admission of some non-emergency patients, simply because there isn't suitable space immediately available.

An increasingly important factor in this overcrowded situation is the number of juvenile patients who are being brought to the hospital.

Part of this spurt, Dr. Pettit believes, has been due to preparations for opening a child treatment center at the hospital.

"People assume a program exists simply because we talk about planning for it," Dr. Pettit said.

He pointed out the children's building probably will not be ready for several months.

"Some people do have unrealistic expectations of our hospital," he said, "particularly those who want to send us children. Often, with these children, it's just a matter of control."

The hospital now has about 60 juveniles—under 17—in residence. Another 20 or so are on a "visit" status—still listed on hospital records, but residing away from the institution.

One approach to meeting the overcrowded problem, Dr. Pettit said, is to seek to cut down on "unnecessary admissions." However, there apparently aren't a great deal of these, he added.

In some cases, due to overcrowded conditions, admissions are being delayed two weeks—with the hospital anticipating some other patients will be placed on a "visit" status in the interim and suitable bed space will be available at the end of that period.

"This is nothing to worry the public about," the superintendent pointed out. "We are accepting gross emergency cases."

Overcrowded conditions have been a problem at Missouri mental institutions for years. The St. Joseph hospital now has just over 2,100 patients.

"The way I read the law we don't have to admit a patient if we don't have the space," Dr. Pettit said. "Of course, we could just put people out in the halls."

"But are we doing the patient justice if we admit him when we don't have the proper facilities?" Dr. Pettit said the proper step toward alleviating these overcrowded conditions would be the establishment of intensive treatment centers at Kansas City, St. Louis and Columbia. Such a proposal is now before the state legislature.

Advocates of such a plan say such intensive treatment at early stages will help get people out of the hospitals, cured, rather than have them remain for years and develop into custodial care.

"We've got to get some people home," he said.

DIDN'T LOSE A POUND IN 125,000 MILES

"We had a '55 Dodge truck that went 125,000 miles without a wrench touching it. At 125,000 miles we tuned the engine and found every one of the eight cylinders registering 125 pounds compression or better. When that truck was wrecked in a smashup we replaced it with a 1962 Dodge D500 with a 361 cubic inch V8 engine. That Dodge outperforms any other truck I've ever driven or used. Since then we have added two more D500s, making three Dodges in our grain- and limestone-hauling business." Ivan Rummelhart, Hills, Iowa. Dodge trucks now being sold have a new no-extra-cost feature. #### VFW Appointment

Glen H. Hinkle, 400 West Johnson has been appointed national aide-de-camp to the commander-in-chief, Veterans of Foreign Wars, it was announced today.

explained military confidence this way: "The advantage of a military education is that you must do what you are assigned. This means that you tackle many projects for which you are not equipped but in which you must do a good job."

Gen. McAuliffe offered this explanation:

"Few people appreciate that the military is big business. For any commander his military requirements are relatively minor."

McAuliffe, a handsome man with a twinkle in his eye that must have been with him that day at Bastogne when he answered a German surrender demand with "nuts," is now a vice president of American Cyanamid Corp., a huge chemical firm.

"I ran a post exchange in Europe that sold $175 million worth of goods a year, published one of the biggest newspapers in Europe — Stars and Stripes — and managed a $2-billion construction program," he said.

McAuliffe, who was the top Army man in Europe and later assistant chief of staff, does not notice differences. Can a military organization and a corporation be run the same way?

"Of course I say they can but my superiors don't agree. In finality as you can in the service.

Gen. MacArthur still presides at board meetings of the Sperry Rand Corp. Gen. Bradley is chairman of the Bulova Watch Co., Gen. Gavin heads the Arthur D. Little research firm, Gen. J. Lawton Collins is an executive of the drug firm, Pfizer & Co. and Admirals Nimitz and Arleigh

A. Burke are corporate directors. Such highly informed men are needed by corporations that work with the military.

Military business is big business. In 1961 the military contracted for $22.9 billion of business within the United States alone.

The fact is that in so-called peaceful days, far removed from bullets and battlefields, there are great administrative similarities between corporations and military units.

"The military, to be successful, must be decentralized with strong controls," said Clay. "This is the usual pattern big business seeks and does, in fact, establish. Organizationally they are very much related."

It is for this reason, Clay believes, that former high-ranking officers fit into big business more easily than into small business.

Lauris Adapts His Military Training to Executive Job

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising ramrod straight from his chair, Gen. Lauris Norstad, former military commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, apologized for a few papers on his broad walnut desk.

"I've only been on the job a short while," he said, "so you see it's pretty cluttered."

The expanse of desk may have seemed disordered to a precise military man. It would, however, pass inspection from any businessnessman. Norstad is a business man now.

His office is on the 14th floor of a Fifth Avenue skyscraper, where he presides as president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas International, a business far removed from military affairs.

The handsome, 56-year-old combat and diplomatic veteran, is a recent big-name military man to step into a top industrial position.

Before him marched Douglas MacArthur, Chester W. Nimitz, Anthony C. McAuliffe, Lucius D. Clay, Omar N. Bradley, James

M. Gavin and other generals and admirals.

Obviously, despite their lack of experience in the world of profits and losses, military men are considered good businessmen. Why?

"My work," said Norstad, "was not technically military. In the service you control tremendous capital investments and you have to come up with your budget. You have a structure similar to what you have here."

Then, more militarily, the retired general explained how it was possible to work the same way within both corporate and military systems.

"First," he said, "you determine the facts. Then you determine the alternatives."

He continued: "There is no substitute for educating yourself, for knowing more about a subject than anyone else. I might be stupid, but I've never learned a substitute for this."

Gen. Clay, director of the Berlin air lift, former president and chairman of Continental Can Co. and now senior partner in the investment firm of Lehman Corp.,

Dates Ahead

Friday, May 17 — Second session Simplified Sewing, R. E. A. Conference Room, Highway 65 North.

Monday, May 20, and Tuesday, May 21 — Extension Club Foods Leaders training meeting, Foods Leaders No. 3 and No. 4 have been notified.

Wednesday, May 22 — 4-H Judges training meeting, Clinton.

Thursday, May 23 — 4-H Council, 8 p.m., Pettis County Court House.

Saturday, May 25 — 4-H Barnwarming, Hughesville School, at 7:30 p.m.

Simplified Sewing Classes
The first in a series of four class sessions was held Friday, May 10. The next meeting will be May 17, June 11 and June 21.

There are 37 enrolled in the three classes. Time for class sessions is 9 a.m., 1 p.m., and 7:30 p.m.

Additional registration may be made May 17. After that date the classes will be closed to new members.

Fire Safety Program
Extension Club Safety leaders are progressing nicely with their program. This consists of locating on a map the names of all farms in the community. The map with information about each farm will be given to the County Fire Department to be used in getting their map and files up to date.

Extension Club Health Program
Mrs. Eva Moen, Health Educator, State Division of Health, has visited 24 of the 26 Extension Clubs and presented a program on mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration. She will visit Georgetown and Houstonia Extension Clubs in September.

This has been a very educational and worthwhile project.

4-H Judges Training
The training meeting for 4-H Home Economics judges will be held in Clinton, Mo., May 22. Pettis County judges will attend this meeting. The judging information will be presented by Mrs. Eileen Gibson, Josephine Flory and Alice Mae Alexander, specialist from the State staff.

Preserves
A fruit preserve is a product consisting of whole small fruits or pieces of large fruits cooked in a sirup until translucent and the juice is jellied. A good preserve should be bright in color and have the flavor of the fresh cooked fruit. The fruit should be tender yet retain its shape.

The problem in making preserves is to get the fruit to absorb the sirup gradually enough to prevent shrinkage. The kind of fruit used for making preserves makes a difference in the way the sirup and fruit are handled.

Hard fruits such as pears, apples, and quinces, need to be cooked in water or steamed until partially tender before they are preserved.

Juicy fruits fall into two classes: (1) very tender fruits, like strawberries, which are likely to go to pieces during cooking, and (2) plums and other fruits with firm skins. Cooking of these firm-skinned fruits may begin in a heavy sirup since the sirup is thinned down rapidly by the fruit juices that come out during the cooking.

But with the very tender fruits like strawberries or ripe peaches, it is better to allow them to stand overnight in sugar. If cooked immediately, the fruit will lose juice and shrink a little. Standing in sugar will firm the fruit and it is not as likely to cook to pieces.

No water needs to be added to juicy fruits as the fruit juice supplies enough liquid to prevent the sugar from scorching and the cooking time is short because there is little liquid to be evaporated. The standard proportion of sugar varies from 3/4 to 1 pound of sugar to 1 pound of prepared fruit. The weight of a quart of fruit varies considerably with the kind, with the way it is packed, and also with the shape and size of the pieces. So it is preferable to weigh rather than measure fruits. Do not use more than 6 or 8 pounds of fruit for one pan of preserves.

Cooking Preserves

Preserves should be cooked until the sirup is thick and the fruit is translucent. The temperature at which this concentration occurs varies from 217 degrees to 226 degrees F. If overcooked, the preserves will be dark and dull in appearance. Most fruits will plump up some if allowed to cool and stand in the sirup overnight. Pack the fruit in the jars, heat the juice to boiling, and pour over the fruit. Seal, label, and store.

Strawberry Preserves

The color and flavor of strawberries are easily destroyed by heat so it is always important to apply as little heat as possible. Following are three methods for making strawberry preserves. With all methods, after jars are cold, turn on their sides and let lay in that position about one week, turning jars each day so all berries absorb more juice.

Method I

Select large, firm tart berries. Wash, drain, and cap. Weigh and for each pound of berries weigh out a pound of sugar. Combine in alternate layers and let stand overnight. Heat slowly to boiling temperature, stirring very carefully. Boil rapidly 15 to 20 minutes or until berries are somewhat clear and sirup slightly thick. Avoid burning. Remove scum. Pour into hot jars and seal.

Method II

1 quart berries, capped and shaken down
1 quart sugar
1 teaspoon butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Mix berries and half of the sugar. Add butter, bring to boil. Boil 4 minutes. Add lemon juice and the rest of the sugar. Boil 4 more minutes. Pour into platters or a shallow dish and let stand overnight. Pour into jars and seal.

Method III

1 cup small strawberries (for juice)
6 cups berries for preserves
3 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon butter

Wash, drain and cap berries. Mash the juice berries and boil about 3 minutes. Put them through a strainer. And the sugar to the juice and heat until the sugar is dissolved. Cool the sirup and add preserve berries, salt, and butter. Put over low heat and simmer 3 to 5 minutes. Increase heat and boil rapidly until berries are somewhat translucent (10-15 minutes). Pour into a shallow dish and let stand overnight. Put drained berries in jars. Reheat juice to boiling and pour over berries and seal.

Simulated Trips to Moon Practiced By Astronauts

By JOHN WOODFIELD
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Astronaut Alan Shepard gazed intently at the winking instrument panel before him.

A bright, red ball danced crazily on a screen in the upper left corner, registering the pitch, yaw and roll of his space vehicle. A miniature television screen to his right, immediately in front of the co-pilot, showed the moon's rough, crater-pitted surface growing ever larger as touchdown rapidly approached.

Shepard checked the instrument panel again. It was time.

Signaling the navigator to precede him, he crawled carefully under the co-pilot's seat into the after section of the mother ship, then through a flexible tube into the smaller vehicle that would take them out of the moon orbit and down on the surface of the moon itself.

The hatch was sealed, and the moon craft started the final phase of its journey.

The flight that Shepard and his two-man crew were making, however, was not in the black void of outer space. It began and ended at the Martin Company's Baltimore Division.

For here, situated in a room the size of a football field, is the most complete moon-flight simulator in the country.

The capsules themselves — both the mother ship and the smaller moon vehicle connected to it — are detailed mock-ups of the real thing.

The entire room is blacked out.

In the mother ship, three huge, padded reclining chairs face the softly lighted instrument console, and the astronauts control their flight just as they will when the voyage is finally made — from blastoff to recovery. The simulated flight, just as its real-life counterpart, takes seven days.

Each maneuver, each decision, registers in a master control center duplicating the one at Cape Canaveral, and simultaneously is fed to an analogue computer, which translates it, then flashes the results back to both capsule and master control in the form of changes on the instrument panel. The entire operation is instantaneous, despite the 190,000 miles of wire involved.

With the flip of a switch, the flight controller can simulate malfunctions, meteoroid hits or severe radiation. Voice contact can be eliminated without warning to imitate lost radio communication.

In the capsule, the astronauts must maintain a strict schedule.

Each man acts as pilot for only three consecutive hours.

When not in actual control, crew members either are on duty as copilot, sleeping, eating or relaxing in the "lounge," which is another big reclining chair in the rear of the capsule.

Since only one astronaut can sleep at a time, a single bunk is sufficient. It has a heavy acoustical curtain around it to eliminate noise.

In the lounge, tape-recorded music from classical to Frank Sinatra vocals helps combat boredom.

Closed circuit television and hidden microphones record every movement and sound aboard the capsule.

A miniature television mounted in the control panel is used for visual guidance as the spacecraft closes with the moon. Actually, the view is a sand mock-up outside the building.

When a satisfactory lunar orbit is achieved, two of the astronauts crawl through a flexible metal tube into the moon vehicle. The hatch is sealed and the tube withdrawn into the mother ship to simulate detachment.

Once landed on the moon, the astronauts must blast off and rendezvous with the mother ship.

The moon vehicle itself can pitch, yaw and roll just as an actual spacecraft. Through a window, the pilot can see thousands of stars, thrown by projector on a large screen. As he watches intently, he sees what he is seeking — the tiny, blinking light of the mother ship. The course is set.

If he has been accurate, the light becomes larger and larger. When the time is right, the vehicle is turned and the pilot rotates his chair so he can look through another aperture in the roof. Now he must guide the ship into contact with the main spacecraft.

In the simulator, a second mock-up of the mother craft is suspended from the ceiling. It can move in any direction. So, although the pilot actually is maneuvering his moon-raft, the mock-up of the mother ship responds.

If he is accurate, the two ships engage as they would in outer space.

Then it's back to the mother ship for the return journey to earth.

All the astronauts have visited Martin's moon-flight simulator. A number, including Shepard, have participated in the realistic flights. Shepard spent the final 3½ days of a simulated flight—including lunar landing and return—in the space vehicle.

The purpose of the operation is to remove the kinks from the operation so when the actual moon-shot is made, the problems will be minimal.

For example, the control panel has been revamped repeatedly, for ease in viewing. On the first trial, it was found that the pilot developed a severe neck kink the aged under social security, from scanning the board. So the panel was realigned.

Now, the pilot can check his instruments merely by moving his eyes.

During the various shots, even the waste products of the astronauts are checked periodically, since this analysis can reveal undue stress faster than any other.

C.F. Barbour, technical coordinator of the moon-shot simulator, recalls that one pilot jettisoned 200,000 gallons of fuel on the launch pad. Another "bounced pretty hard when he landed on the moon."

At Martins, such miscalculations result in aborting the mission.

In the vast reaches of outer space, however, there can be no mistakes.

Busy Stitchers Meet For a May Luncheon

The Busy Stitchers held its May meeting at the home of Mrs. Marvin Rollings, with a contributive dinner served at the noon hour to six members and four children.

The afternoon meeting was opened with roll call. "An heirloom I treasure."

Plans were made for a wiener roast to be held May 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schneider at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. George Anderson and Mrs. Marvin Rollings were winners in the games.

Mrs. Charles Schneider read, "A Tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Seltzer" who were killed in a car accident and a poem, "As a Man Prayeth."

The June meeting will be with Mrs. Orlo Richardson.

Mo-Pac Women Stage Party

A May Day party was held May 6 by Missouri-Pacific Women's Club at its monthly meeting in Smith-Cotton Little Theater.

The serving table was centered with a miniature May Pole. Figures of boys and girls, each holding streamers of colored ribbon, were dancing around the pole. Artificial flowers completed the arrangement. Cake, coffee and nuts were served by the hostesses, Mrs. William Schutt and Mrs. E. F. White.

Entertainment for the evening was in charge of Mrs. Frank Rouchka and Mrs. William Morgan. Games of Hidden Flowers and Identifying Flowers from paper flowers pinned on each guest were played. Mrs. White and Mrs. A. C. Blankenship won awards.

With Mrs. J. L. Hiltburg at the piano, and a group of the members, several numbers were sung.

Mrs. Morgan announced that in-

Our Unique Revolution

From the earliest days of our history as a free nation, we have felt a kinship for other peoples struggling for independence. More than that, we have believed we could serve as something of a model for them.

Consequently we have been puzzled that, in the last 15 years, so few among the many emerging nations of Asia and Africa have taken us for an example.

Now a Vassar history professor, Carl N. Degler, vigorously questions whether we can find useful parallels between our remarkable story and that of the new countries of the mid-20th century.

Writing in The American Scholar, he suggests that scrutiny of our past indicates "our experience is too special to be a guide to the life of other people."

He starts with the American Revolution itself, which he describes as stemming from a deeply conservative effort to redress grievances within the British colonial system, rather than a heart-felt wish to break away. It became a fight for freedom only when Americans reluctantly concluded redress could be had no other way.

"There was in America no long drawn-out underground independence movement, as in India under Gandhi or Ghana under Nkrumah," says Degler.

Acknowledging that we have always taken an interest in other people's revolutions, he notes, however, that where they did not take the American pattern and lead quickly to orderly democratic societies, we became disillusioned and sometimes openly hostile.

Certainly we have in fact exhibited some such disappointment in recent years as we watched the almost ungovernable chaos in the Congo and the leftward leanings of Ghana and Guinea—to mention just two among the newly independent.

We are perhaps inclined to forget that most of the new nations have had altogether too little experience, if any, at operating democratic institutions and practicing orderly government.

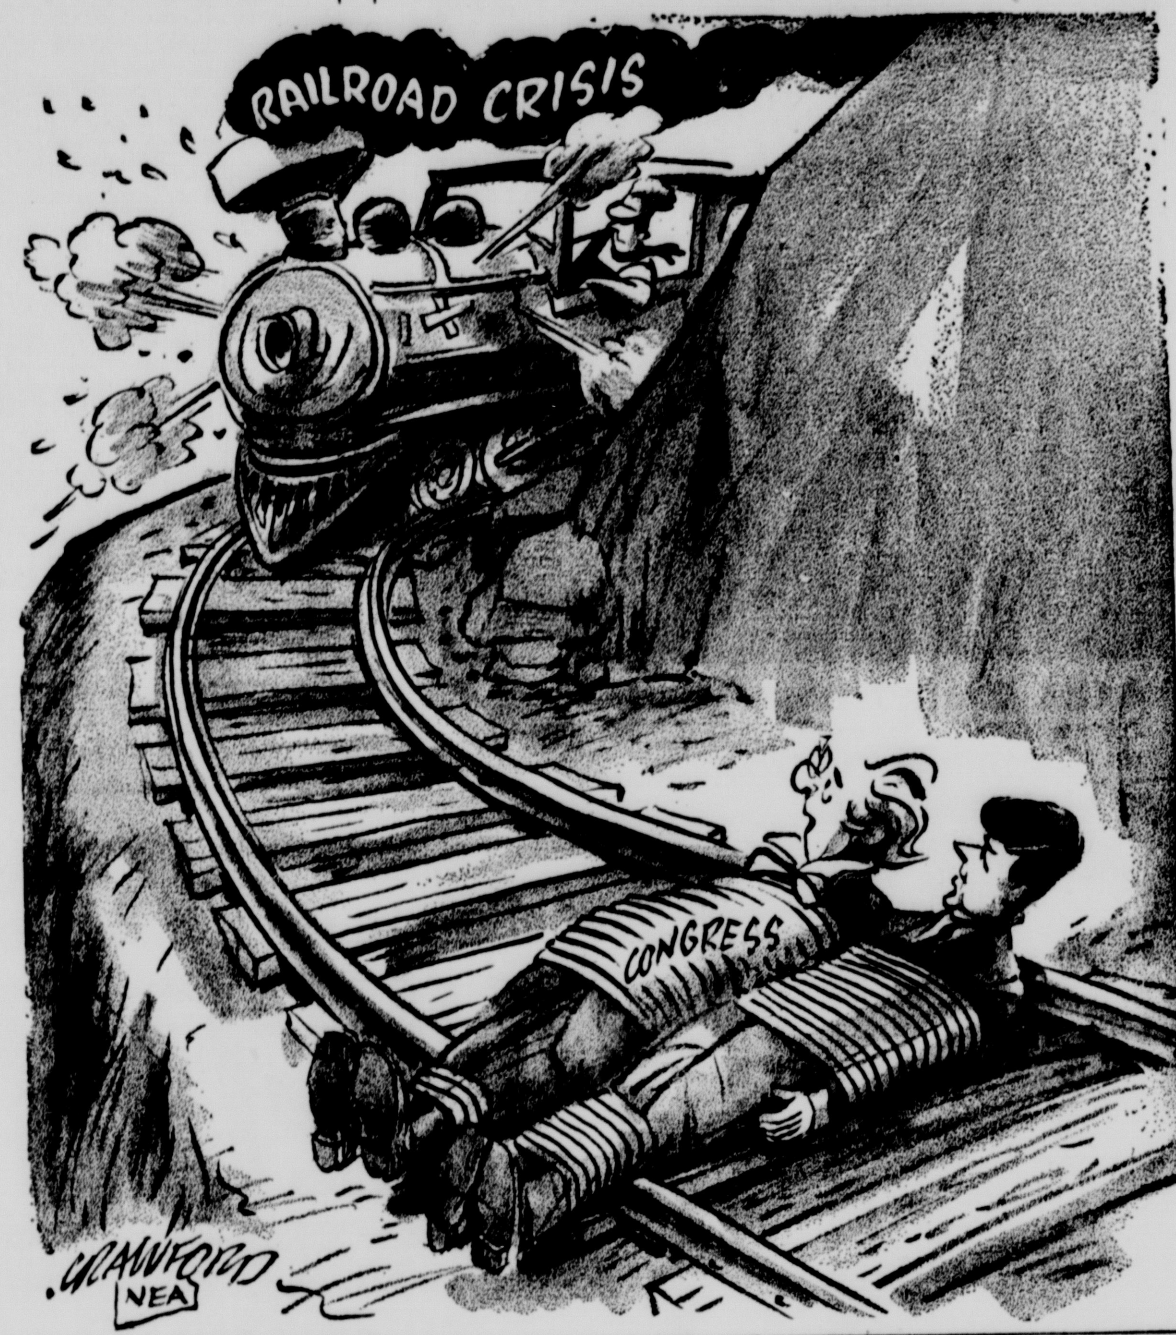

As for us, we had a century and a half of virtual self-government under colonial rule before the Revolution. Even at that, we went through a horrendous period of chaos under the Articles of Confederation before steady hands took hold under the new Constitution.

We could not name one nation on earth which had as much practice at self-government as we did before independence. We were able to build on our past. Most of today's new countries want to repudiate theirs.

The differences between our experience and theirs are many more, not the least of them our abundance of fertile, available land, holding rich resources and offering natural transportation routes.

Impatience unquestionably has led a good many people to seek independence before they were ready. We, on the other hand, have also been impatient in imagining that, once free, they could and should quickly follow our own very special example.

Kennedy to Mark TVA Anniversary

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Back in President Washington's day U.S. Army engineers poked around in the Tennessee River, studying it. Next Saturday President Kennedy goes down to the river to celebrate an anniversary.

Between the two men were a lot of history and people, particularly these five presidents — the two Roosevelts, Wilson, Coolidge and Hoover — and a senator, George W. Norris of Nebraska.

The first Roosevelt, Theodore, made such a big thing of conserving this country's natural resources — and boosting irrigation and reclamation — that some historians consider it his greatest achievement.

But it was something he did in a positive-negative way that has special significance in Kennedy's visit this week. He vetoed a bill for private power development at Muscle Shoals, a 37-mile stretch of rapids in the Tennessee River.

He argued the government should develop the power made available by dams built to improve the stream.

Came World War I and the need for a lot of munitions. Under Wilson a munitions plant was built at Muscle Shoals and a dam, called Wilson, was started to provide power for the plant and improve navigation in the river.

For 15 years after the war there was a great debate: What to do with the plants? Private companies wanted to buy but they offered too little. Norris came into the picture.

He thought the Muscle Shoals properties should be operated publicly. Out of this thinking came the idea of a Tennessee Valley Authority to benefit the whole region. He steered two bills through Congress.

Coolidge vetoed the first (1928) and Hoover the second (1931). Their objection: That TVA would mean government competition with private enterprise. "That," Hoover said, "is not liberalism, it is degeneration."

But Franklin D. Roosevelt became president March 4, 1933. Within the next famous 100 days he and Norris got a TVA bill through Congress. Roosevelt signed it into law May 18, 1933.

Kennedy's visit to Muscle Shoals next Saturday is to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the creation of TVA. Norris had later proposed seven other TVA-type programs for other parts of the country but all failed.

TVA, administered by three directors in Tennessee and not out of Washington, was created to help a region. Other dams and power projects may have multiple purposes but they're not like TVA whose expressed purpose was:

To provide power, flood control, and navigation. Two historians, Samuel Elliot Morison and Henry Steele Commager, went so far as to say that of all the New Deal measures TVA was possibly the "most important for the future."

It serves an area involving seven states. There are now 31 dams in the TVA system—nine on the Tennessee River and 22 on its tributaries. The U-shaped river, which begins at Knoxville, turns down and then up to Paducah, Ky. where it joins the Ohio.

The Tennessee is navigable for 650 miles because of the locks in its dams, and its channels. The TVA sells electric power wholesale to municipalities and cooperatives in an 80,000 mile area, thus keeping down the price. Floods are controlled because water can be held back by the dams in reservoirs. TVA plants experiment with and produce fertilizers which industries get free on a TVA license. In addition to all this, there are lakes with 10,000 miles of shoreline for outdoors activities.

Nothing like TVA, which runs itself with its 18,000 employees, is likely soon. For one thing, business has never stopped yelling this is socialism.

So many government agencies have a hand in other projects around the country that they overlap and fight one another for a say-so. For example: 15 different agencies are involved in one way or another in power transmission, 9 in irrigation and 12 in flood control.

Teach Useful Phrases

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: My 8-year-old granddaughter is what in my day was called "affected."

I saw this clearly the other day when I took an old school friend to visit my son and his family. My friend gave my granddaughter a small purse vial of perfume the child had admired. We were both very embarrassed by her gushy thanks and affected chatter about how generous my friend was.

Answer: Is it possible that your granddaughter has not been taught use of the plain old phrase "Thank you"?

It is a functional phrase.

The reason we don't require social phrases like "Thank you," "How do you do?" from little boys and girls is that they do not understand these phrases' usefulness. We can force them to repeat them like parrots, but they lack the experience that makes practical sense of them.

However, at your granddaughter's age, children are ready to adopt them as useful. If they are not taught them, then, in situations that call for one of these phrases, they are at a loss.

Their responses may strike us as "affected" or down-right rude. But the truth is, the untrained child is struggling to improvise words and behavior which he hopes will fit the occasion. Thus, in her eagerness to express thanks properly, a girl of 8 will sound gushy and "affected" just as a boy will sound too gruff and off-handed.

Parents sometimes fail to teach children good manners because they regard these manners as ornamental. Children don't want to be decorated. They don't care about being approved as "little ladies and gentlemen."

To make good manners acceptable, we have to appreciate them as functional things. Then we can make sense of them to youngsters. By the time they have reached your granddaughter's age, they already have experienced some of the embarrassment we all feel when we don't know how strangers expect us to treat them and are only too glad to receive instruction in the conventional phrases of courtesy that make it unnecessary for them to improvise their own.

If you can agree with me, maybe you can create an occasion to take your granddaughter aside and say, "You know, Jill, when grownups give you things, all they expect back is 'Thank you.' You don't have to give them any more. It's enough for them."

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

The pressure is on for high school seniors. In a few weeks they will graduate into the wide, wide world. No commencement address, no matter how splendid, can give the kids any assurance that they will lead a milk-and-honey existence. At no time since the depression have things looked so bleak for a graduating class.

It is no news to the young men and women that competition is terrific for jobs, colleges, scholarship money and a square foot of living space to stake out for themselves. Most of them already have the pitch. They have been digging.

Our grads this June are the fruit of the big World War II baby boom — the biggest crop of high school graduates this country ever has experienced—estimates from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare run as high as 1,980,000 — figuring that everybody who is on record will have the strength (after all those two hour-long exams) and the passing grades finally to make it.

What are the prospects?

For the top-notch gifted youngster who already has won accolades and financial grants and admission to more colleges than he could attend in a lifetime, the world is a pretty rosy place. There are about 5,000 of these lucky youngsters who probably are more skilled and better trained than their counterparts who have come before them. They have it made if they can fulfill their potential and don't blow up in a test tube while they are experimenting.

Pampered, tested and hovered over — academic orchids — this group of talented boys and girls are the pride and joy of the scholastic world; their interests seismographed to give them vast cerebral latitude.

After the Russians shot off Sputnik, it was a big deal for this group to go into engineering. Now, they have leveled off and chosen teaching, research science and medicine as goals. Engineering still is on the list but has been downgraded in importance by the students themselves.

For the average C-student—the lovable boys and girls who belong to everything and make up the bulk of the graduates — the boys and girls next door — the road will be a great deal rougher.

They already have been ground through the college admission office mill and, in practically all cases, have received their rejection letter, couched in comforting language, from the ivy league colleges who, individually and cryptically, design their own criteria. Educators in Washington are frank to admit that the ivy league schools, themselves, frequently are not sure they have chosen the "chosen ones" correctly. If the C-student has been accepted at a lesser school, meantime, he now is worrying about how to dig up enough money to meet the high cost of tuition—ranging from $2,000 to $3,000 annually, less for state schools. A C-student's grades usually are too mediocre to get the scholarship money awarded primarily on scholastic achievement or they do not meet the specialized requirements cited in so many scholarship grants, particularly industry gifts and bequests from relatives—many of which require that the grantee be the offspring of an employee or live in a certain community or be related to some long dead hero or be interested in some obscure poet. These restrictive scholarships are a pain in the academic neck and pressures are on to broaden their scope.

C-students might still have some luck with the Federal Student Loan programs which allows borrowing up to $1,000 per year to deserving students with no repayment due until graduation. These loans come under the National Defense Education Act and can be obtained directly through the University.

Students who have been flatly rejected by more than one college need not despair. There still are accredited church and smaller colleges which now have vacancies for the 1963-64 academic year. No matter what happens, the advice from principals everywhere, is do not be discouraged, entirely, and do not quit trying to enroll somewhere. "It never is too late until the bell rings in September," one ranking official counsels.

Dr. Colburn E. Hooten, an executive of the National Education Association says, "ten years from now, it is from the C group that our finest talent will emerge. . . the professions, technicians and high earning business executives will make their mark. . . there is no question about it. . . it always has happened. . ."

At the moment, this is poor consolation for those who are outside looking over the college wall, and the picture gets no brighter if the student goes job-hunting.

There are more graduates hitting the streets than there are jobs available. This is no secret. A summer baby sitting ad in a local Washington newspaper pulled an average of 30 inquiries from young girls.

Despite the fancy recruiting posters, the military services are no immediate outlet, either: Air Force, Marine Corps and Navy quotas currently are filled and there is a waiting list in each of these services. The Army is getting its personnel from the draft. Thus, if a deserving student wants to continue his education he probably has the blessing of the Selective Service Board which leniently will give him a deferment. But, the military, at this stage, cannot absorb all of those who are jobless and without a "college green" on which to collapse.

The picture is depressing. Yet, there are bright spots: those who do get jobs and won't go to college will hopefully try to find work in the electronic servicing industries and get extensive on-the-job training. Pumping gas at the corner station, and jerking sodas is a last resort. Meantime, more boys and girls are college-bound than ever before.

The most deep-seated problem on all levels is the school drop out, the low I.Q. and white illiterates who have no place at all to go. For them, at the moment, the situation is almost hopeless. The others have a chance to make it but the going will be rough for everybody.

The Well Child

Some Treatments Beat Hocus-Pocus for Warts

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The ideal disease for mumbo jumbo treatment is warts—said to be the commonest skin disease of childhood.

Monkeys shines in a graveyard at midnight is a popular way to treat warts. This method succeeds in about 30 per cent of the cases—for the simple reason that if you did nothing at all for warts, you would achieve the same results.

After centuries of study of this fascinating subject, doctors know that warts are caused by a virus. But they still don't know why some warts disappear spontaneously. Whenever such a disappearance occurs it is natural for the patient to sing the praises of his specific treatment.

That is why the power of suggestion has been credited with many cures, and why a host of remedies—now known to be worthless—have had a vogue.

Although warts are due to an infection with a virus, they are only slightly contagious and attempts to prevent their spread from person to person in swimming pools and gymnasiums have not yielded any better results than letting nature take its course.

A child who has warts is much more likely to spread them from one part of his body to another than to pass them on to a playmate.

For warts that don't disappear spontaneously, several treatments have been found to be effective. These include burning them off, the electric needle, freezing, salves that contain salicylic or trichloroacetic acid, cutting away the involved skin, and X-ray.

It now appears that a simple method is successful in about 80 per cent of cases. The affected part is soaked in water kept at a constant temperature of 113 to 188 degrees F. for 30 to 90 minutes once or twice a week until the warts disappear. This may take from two to three weeks to three months. Care must be taken not to cause a burn.

It has been observed that in the case of stubborn warts that will not go away by themselves but must be removed, a certain small per cent recur, whereas those that disappear spontaneously are less likely to return.

Q—My 5-year-old daughter is very nervous. Quite often throughout the day while she is playing, she'll stop suddenly and just stand there. At these times her eyes roll up so that only the whites are showing. These spells last only a few seconds. She then continues what she was doing as though nothing had happened. When questioned about it, she has no recollection of these lapses. What are they due to, and is it serious.

A—These spells sound very much like the petit mal attacks of epilepsy. This is the mildest form of the disease, and a form for which treatment is most successful. Your doctor should get brain wave tracings of your daughter to make sure of the diagnosis. He can then determine which remedy will work best for her, and how much she will need to control the attacks.

Nixon Leaves California at Wrong Time

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It looks as if Dick Nixon is moving away from California at the wrong time.

Two weeks after his announced decision to move, the political skies have started falling down on California Democrats. It could very definitely swing that key state over to the Republicans in 1964 and could seriously endanger Kennedy's re-election.

What has happened in California politics is that two Democratic leaders have become more ambitious than the governor, both politically and pocketbook-wise. Power seems to have gone to their heads. They are:

No. 1—Eugene Wyman, Democratic state chairman. Wyman has recently been revealed as attorney for Endo Laboratories in Los Angeles, makers of a drug called Percodan which contains a certain amount of narcotics.

The California legislature recently passed a narcotics control bill, aimed at drastically restricting the use of all narcotics, but containing an amendment which for some reason gave preference to Percodan. After two years of regulation, this amendment would permit Percodan to go off the regulation list.

When this connection between state chairman Wyman and the company manufacturing Percodan was made public by Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, Gov. Pat Brown and Attorney General Stanley Mosk issued statements that they knew of no improper action by Wyman. Mosk's office actually appeared in opposition to the Percodan amendment, and both Brown and Mosk are of the type that would not have permitted any skulduggery if they had known about it.

However, Wyman's father-in-law was recently appointed by the governor to the pharmacy control board, and Wyman's wife is on the Los Angeles city council. Wyman's law firm meanwhile has been expanding until it has become one of the most prosperous in southern California, and some of his clients have business before the city council of which his wife is a member.

Another Powerful Democrat

No. 2—Jesse Unruh, the Democratic powerhouse in Sacramento. Unruh is now considered as powerful as Gov. Brown and sometimes shows himself to be more so. As chairman of the California state legislature's ways and means committee, Unruh can just about decide what bill can pass the legislature. This is partly accomplished through campaign contributions, Unruh being the chief funnel through which contributions are distributed to Democratic legislators.

KINGSTON (N.Y.) DAILY FREEMAN:

Fresh Air Job.—This is the time of year when the office worker envies those fortunate souls who work outdoors. The winter long, snug at his desk, he may feel superior to them. Come spring, the shoe is on the other foot.

Those fellows who toil for the park department, raking leaves, trimming shrubs and trees, painting, tidying up—what a pleasant time they must have of it on these first balmy days! Or consider the mail man: while dull indoor existence goes on much as it did when Boreas howled, the mail man moves along with a bounce in his step . . . listening to birdsong heralding the world's rebirth.

The meter readers, the fellows who distribute handbills, delivermen, milk route men—these and all their kind can put in long hours enjoying what the deskbound can savor only fleetingly on the way to work. . . .

It's not that the average office worker would really like to chuck his job to do any of those things, understand. But quite a few might like to give it a try for a couple of weeks in the spring.

Annual Sophomore Tea Given By Business Club

The annual Sophomore Tea, given for sophomore girls and their mothers each year by the Business and Professional Women's Club, was held Monday afternoon at the Immanuel, United Church of Christ. The tea is sponsored by the career advancement committee of which Miss Opal O'Brian is chairman, with Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, co-chairman.

The purpose, Miss O'Brian told the group, of the tea is to give the girls an idea of various careers of successful business and professional women of the club to help them decide what field they might want to go into and thus take subjects that would benefit them when they go into college or into their chosen line of work.

The first speaker was Mrs. Madeline Burke, a grade school teacher at Horace Mann School. Mrs. Burke stated that there were several factors which made teaching one of the finest professions, but the first thing that a girl should consider is whether the business or profession she chooses gives her personal happiness.

The second speaker was Mrs. Gladys Michael, of the Michael-Jackson Florists. This was not the first career she chose, Mrs. Michael said, but it is a very nice and satisfying one, closely related to art and color. It, too, she explained, is a profession that is creative, and through it you can express your ideas. This offers many things, business manager, sales people, those who can create and those who can take care of products that are used.

Mrs. Nyra Price, with the Federal Crops Ins., Corp., was the next speaker, talking on secretarial work. On the role of the Girl Friday or secretary, she said, could depend the success or failure of her employer. She stated that government jobs offer good salaries and good retirement for those who can qualify.

Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer, who is in the jewelry department at Flower's told of some of the things a saleswoman should know about her work.

The last speaker was Mrs. Adeline Geiger Jacobs, a nurse at Bothwell Hospital. Nursing is one of the oldest professions, she said, and went on to say that she had enjoyed it very much. She told of the different types of specialized nursing, hospital nurses, which covers many things, children, babies, operating room, recovery room, taking care of patients, floor duty, emergency room, and she stated they have every type of accident, older people, students. Then in other fields there is public health, Armed Forces, school nursing, teaching, camp nursing, missionary, train or plane, industrial, private duty and many others.

She told of the Future Nurses

Club which she said was a real good project. Scholarships are given to help those interested to go on in their training.

Miss O'Brian introduced the president of the BPWC, Mrs. Mildred Bowman, and the incoming president, Mrs. Sue Keim.

Following the program punch and cookies were served to the girls and their mothers, from a table covered with a lace cloth over blue. The centerpiece was of pink roses on either side of which were two branch white milk glass candelabra. The punch howl, holding pink punch, and the cups, were also of milk glass. Mrs. Bowman poured and was assisted by Mrs. Vivian Warren.

Back of the tea table were tall baskets of pink peonies and white miniature wild roses, and baskets of the same flowers were on the stage and around the room.

What to do with tousled hair after a busy day outdoors. These models solve this old problem with a switch and wiglet. After smoothing her hair to the back (left), the model pins it in place and creates a new hairdo by braiding her switch of human hair (switches usually are 18 to 22 inches long) and wearing it as a topknot. To add height and some width to her coiffure, the model (right) uses a wiglet (usually 8 inches of hair). She combs and pins her hair in place and arranges the wiglet with elaborate curls at the side. A wiglet also helps in creating formal hairdos.

Dutch Parliament Assures NATO Aid

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The Dutch elected a new Parliament Wednesday that assured continued support for North Atlantic alliance.

There were no major issues raised during the campaign.

Premier Jan Eduard de Quay's Catholic People's party emerged the strongest. It gained one seat to total 50 on the new 150-man House. He called the results a vote of confidence in the coalition regime he headed with the Free-Enterprise Liberals and two right-wing Protestant parties.

The opposition Labor party, which held 48 seats in the old Parliament, dropped 5 in the only substantial loss by a major faction.

The other surprise was by the new Rightist Farmers' party which won 3 seats.

Local Candidates For CMC Degrees

Among candidates for degrees at Central Methodist College, Fayette, are Joseph L. Allen, bachelor of music in education, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Allen, 1411 South Beacon; Hugh A. Jones, II, bachelor of arts, son of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh A. Jones, 1104 East Broadway.

Degrees will be conferred at commencement exercises at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 26.

In Ranks

With Area Servicemen

Airman Robert L. Bretall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Bretall of Star Route, Smithton, is being reassigned to Forbes AFB, Kan., for training and duty as an air policeman.

Airman Bretall recently completed United States Air Force basic military training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

The airman is a 1961 graduate of Stover High School.

Airman Third Class David E. Wright of Warrensburg, Mo., is being reassigned to his Air Force Reserve unit at Richards-Gebaur AFB, Mo., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for aircraft mechanics at Sheppard AFB, Texas.

Airman Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Wright, Warrensburg, was trained to maintain and service reciprocating engine aircraft and aircraft systems.

The airman is a graduate of Rich Hill, Mo. High School. He received a B.S. degree from Central Missouri State College and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Army PFC Winfred L. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Green, Route 1, Blackwater, recently was assigned to the 8th Infantry Division in Germany.

Green, a bridge specialist in Company E of the division's 12th Engineer Battalion, entered the Army in December 1961 and received basic training at Fort Carson, Colo.

Army Sgt. William E. Weir, 32, son of Mrs. Lenora O. Denham, 703 North Prospect, participated in the Second U. S. Army Commander's Rifle and Pistol Championship Matches at Fort George G. Meade, Md., April 23 to May 2. Approximately 400 rifle and 300 pistol marksmen from the seven-state Second Army area took part in the shoot.

Sergeant Weir, who entered the Army in October 1949, is regularly stationed at Fort Meade as a military policeman in the 526th Military Police Company.

He attended Smith-Cotton High School. His wife, Marie, is with him at the fort, and his father, Forest E. Weir, lives in Centerville.

Victor W. Dover, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Dover, 1501 East 14th, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Morton, currently assigned patrol duty with the Seventh Fleet in the Taiwan Straits.

Morton, a unit of Destroyer Division 172, is part of the Navy's mission to preserve the library of a friendly foreign country.

The Pacific Fleet destroyer operates out of San Diego, Calif.

Jack S. Leet, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mrs. Helen La-Clair, 520 South Lafayette, and John D. Samuels, electrician's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Brent Samuels,

Bunceton Musicians Rate at MU Festival

Two Bunceton students, Bob Warmbrodt and Eddie Brickner, received I and II ratings respectively at the University of Missouri Music Festival recently. Both are sophomores.

1709 South Stewart, will be serving aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Joseph Strauss.

The Strauss' assignment is the Pacific Fleet, where she will join Cruiser-Destroyer Forces, Pacific, and operate out of Long Beach, Calif.

Pfc. Roger Grinstead recently completed his training at Ft. Riley, Kan., where he was a member of the 121st Signal Bn. He has departed for Vietnam after spending 15 days leave visiting with his parents in Sedalia.

He visited his mother, Mrs. Bernice Grinstead, 919 South Osage, and his father, E. R. Grinstead, 2101 East Broadway, during his leave and delay in route to his port of embarkation.

Water makes a stouter wall than stone, military history indicates, but Army Pfc. Robert L. Holdren, Sedalia, recently took part at Fort Hood, Tex., in a demonstration of new methods for armies to overcome river barriers.

Holdren, with other members of the 1st Armored Division's 16th Engineer Battalion, demonstrated speed methods of combat river crossing before an audience of nine generals, including Lt. Gen. Walter K. Wilson Jr., Army chief of engineers, as well as other command and staff officers.
